No Thug Life release in K'taka on June 5, no apology from Kamal

YATHIRAJU @ Bengaluru

IT is an uncertain life for Kamal Haasan's Thug Life on screens in Karnataka. The movie will not be released in the state as part of its worldwide release on June 5, with the actor refusing to submit an apology for his controversial remark 'Kannada is born out of Tamil' despite an oral suggestion by the Karnataka High Court.

Senior counsel Dhyan Chinnappa, representing petitioner Raajkamal Films International (RKFI), for which Kamal is a director, told the Karnataka High Court on Tuesday that the actor would not apologise since there was no malice in his statement.

The counsel said Kamal had already communicated his explanation to the Karnataka Film Chamber of Commerce (KFCC) that his intention is not to diminish Kannada in anyway.

When Justice M Nagaprasanna asked why Kamal did not add a sentence of apology in his letter to KFCC, "which is a declaration of justification of his statement", Chinnappa said that an apology is required where there is malice but Kamal had no ill intention while making the statement in question.

JUDUM CASE

Parliament's laws out of contempt ambit : SC

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court has rejected a 2012 contempt plea filed by sociologist and former Delhi University professor Nandini Sundar and others, who claimed that the enactment of the Chhattisgarh Auxiliary Armed Police Force Act, 2011 to curb Maoist activity was in contempt of the court's landmark verdict against vigilante group Salwa Judum that year.

"Every State Legislature has plenary powers to pass an enactment and so long as the said enactment has not been declared to be ultra vires the Constitution or, in any way, null and void by a Constitutional Court, the said enactment would have the force of law," a two-judge bench comprising justices B V Nagarathna and Satish Chandra Sharma said.

Sundar had alleged failure of the Chhattisgarh government to comply with the Supreme Court's directions in 2011 to stop support to vigilante groups like Salwa Judum and arming tribals in the name of special police officers (SPO) in the fight against Maoists.

However, the bench observed that it was the duty of the state government and the Centre to take adequate steps for restoration of peace and rehabilitation of the residents who have been affected by violence from whatever quarter.

● Opposition parties write to Modi ● Govt not keen since Monsoon session is weeks away

16 parties press PM to call spl session of Parliament

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

STEPPING up pressure on the Modi government on the demand for a Special Session of Parliament in the wake of Operation Sindoor, leaders of 16 Opposition parties, including Rahul Gandhi, Akhilesh Yadav and Abhishek Banerjee wrote to Prime Minister Narendra Modi on the issue.

Senior opposition leaders, who held a meeting in the capital said the session was needed to discuss a series of events, including the Pahalgam attack, followed by Operation Sindoor, US President Donald Trump's claim of brokering a ceasefire between India and Pakistan, and the death of civilians in border areas in Pakistan shelling. The letter was released after the meeting.

Opposition leaders said they stood with the government after the Pahalgam attack, and through Op Sindoor, adding that their demand for a special session must be met.

"There are serious questions facing the nation about the terror attack, killing of civilians in Poonch, Uri and Rajouri, the ceasefire announcements, and the implications on national security and foreign policy. We have supported the government's efforts to engage with the international community on India's position. The government has briefed foreign nations and the media, but not Parliament, keeping the people of India and their elected representatives in the dark," said the letter. However, according to sources, the government is not keen on holding a special session as the Monsoon session is scheduled for the second week of July.

TMC's Derek O'Brien said the decision to make a joint effort to demand a special session was made by the presidents of the respective parties, and not just the Parliamentary Party leaders.

However, the Aam Aadmi Party wrote a separate letter to the PM raising the same demand.

Cricketing analogy to explain victory

Using a cricketing metaphor to draw a clear distinction between initial setbacks and the overall outcome of Operation Sindoor, Chief of Defence Staff Gen Anil Chauhan said, "Suppose you go into a cricket test match and you win by an innings, then there is no question of wickets and balls etc." Professional militaries are not affected by temporary losses | P9

DKS inspects skydeck site, 68 acres identified

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, who also holds the Bengaluru Development portfolio, on Tuesday inspected the site in Nadaprabhu Kempegowda Layout for the proposed 250-metre skydeck.

According to informed sources, the ambitious project of the Karnataka government will come up on 68 acres in 7th block of the layout situated between Mysuru Road and Magadi Road in Kommaghatta. Considered to be the tallest skydeck in South Asia, the project is estimated to cost Rs 500 crore.

"Today, I visited the BDA site in Kemepgowda Layout where the skydeck will come up. The tallest skydeck in South Asia, an ambitious project of Brand Bengaluru, will be our city's pride," Shivakumar said.

An official said that the DyCM will decide on which civic agency will execute the project. Shivakumar was accompanied by former minister and MLA ST Somashekhar, BDA Commissioner Manivannan, and senior officials.

"The DyCM will decide whether Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike or Bengaluru Development Authority will execute the project. The area is spacious and is well connected with the Major Arterial Road part of the Peripheral Ring Road-2 project," an official, part of the inspection, said.

According to government sources, Bengaluru's skydeck will be three times taller than Delhi's Qutub Minar. The tower will offer a 360-degree panoramic view of the Garden City.

Shivakumar said that the government has decided to celebrate this year's Kempe Gowda Jayanti at Nadaprabhu Kempegowda Layout. "The land allotted to Kempe Gowda Development Authority is nearby. We will lay the foundation stone for the authority on June 27. A museum on Kempe Gowda will come up on the allotted land," he said. "Our local leaders have suggested swapping the allotted land with the land of the Social Welfare Department, as it also has an auditorium. A railway line will also pass through this place, and a station would be built here. This will be taken up in the Cabinet meeting," he said.

EUPHORIC CITY CELEBRATES RCB THE EMOTION

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE @ Bengaluru

THEY say all roads lead to Rome! Rome, the ancient city famed for its sprawling stadia — Circus Maximus and the Colosseum — where charioteers and gladiators once emerged victorious. With Royal Challengers Bengaluru clinching the Indian Premier League in a history-making win, 18 years in the making, all roads now led to the hallowed M Chinnaswamy Stadium.

Following the epic victory over Punjab Kings in Ahmedabad, the thoroughfares surrounding Chinnaswamy spread their arms wide to scenes of jubilation. Bengalureans from every walk of life joined in, waving RCB flags as they walked, others in packed cars hooting and cheering, stepping out of their vehicles to celebrate the moment together.

Minsk Square became a hub of celebration, with at least 50,000 fans and counting. Whistles, shrill screams, and loud huzza filled the chill of the night air. It was midnight. The eerie quiet of the Central Business District at that unearthly hour was drowned by the rising tide of RCB euphoria. Motorcycles, scooters, autorickshaws and cars snaked toward the stadium via Queen's Road, Infantry Road and Cubbon Road, with riders cheering, blasting music, and honking in rhythmic celebration. MG Road and Brigade Road turned into a sea of red, and revellers spread through the city.

Age held no sway. Young couples with sleeping babies in tow passed through the ruckus, the little ones oblivious to the joy around. Children perched on their fathers' shoulders soaked in the towering spectacle of the night. A sleeper tour bus, stranded in traffic near Manekshaw Parade Ground, joined in too — its passengers alighted to dance as the driver played DJ, blaring the horn in musical bursts. Youths climbed on to car roofs, fists thumping the sky, while older fans whistled into the night, its deep blue hues painted with sparks of red and yellow. Fireworks added dazzle to the midnight sky, lighting it up with RCB's name — etched now in the stars above its sacred ground, Bengaluru.

Virat Kohli's emotion in that moment became one for the ages — inscribed in the hearts of generations who waited 18 years for this triumph. In India, cricket is a religion. And here, in Namma Bengaluru, RCB is not just a team — it's an emotion, roaring louder than ever in that triumphant chant: "Ee Sala Cup Namdu!"

No plan to frame bike taxi policy, says transport dept

AKNISREE KARTHIK @Bengaluru

WITH the Karnataka High Court ban on bike taxi operations nearing on June 15, officials of the transport department said they will go ahead and implement the ban. There is no plan to frame a bike taxi policy, which will legalise their operations, they added.

Hundreds of bike taxi riders from Bengaluru and across the state have been meeting Transport Minister Ramalinga Reddy and senior officials of the state Transport Department, telling them that the ban will affect their livelihood. They have been urging them to frame a bike taxi policy in the state and allow them to run bike taxis. However, senior officials of the Department said personal vehicles are only meant for personal use and they cannot be used as bike taxis.

Karnataka was the first state in the country to come out with an electric bike taxi policy- 'Karnataka Electric Bike Taxi Scheme 2021'. The scheme allowed operation of electric bike taxis but the scheme was withdrawn in 2024. While this made the operation of e-bike taxis illegal, there was no policy that legalised the operations of the regular petrol engine two-wheelers, said a senior transport official.

"The number plates for the vehicles are given for a purpose. The whiteboard two-wheelers are only for personal purposes. How can the vehicle be used for commercial operations?", the official questioned.

While acknowledging that they have been getting requests from the bike taxi unions and the riders ever since the Karnataka High Court imposed a ban on their operations, to come up with a bike taxi policy, citing that other states like Delhi and Maharashtra have allowed bike taxis, the official said the state transport department is unlikely to come up with a policy.

He said that after the end of the time given by the HC to bike taxi aggregators to wind up their operations in the state, on June 15, the department will go ahead and implement it.

School encroachment: Shivakumar orders officials to act against accused

DCM DK Shivakumar has directed Bengaluru Urban Deputy Commissioner G Jagadeesh and Bengaluru North Deputy Director of Public Instruction to take immediate action against those allegedly harassing staff and students of Sri Sharada Vidyaniketan School in Vidyaranyapura. Parents, students and teachers, who met Shivakumar on Tuesday, alleged that one Dhananjaya had forcibly occupied the school building along with his goons. "Recently, he brought around 60 people to intimidate us. Around 5pm, he locked the school gate and instructed those with him to check the bags of women. During this time, they destroyed our certificates and school's CCTV cameras, and disconnected Wi-Fi service. Police arrived and provided us protection. On May 29, he again damaged the school property," they alleged. Shivakumar immediately directed the officials to conduct a thorough investigation. "Even if the accused belongs to the Congress or uses our name, action must be taken against him. If the BEO fails to do his duty, suspend him," he told the officials. ENS

Accessibility products & services can reshape markets, say industry leaders

Leaders from diverse industries gathered at the Indian Institute of Management Bangalore (IIMB) to explore the intersection of disability accessibility and the transformative potential of disability-related products and services for the broader economy. Taking part in the IIMB-hosted Purple Economy dialogue on 'Unlocking $18 Trillion in Global Opportunity', they highlighted how products and services that centre accessibility can reshape markets, enhance innovation pipelines, and deliver sustainable value across the value chain spectrum. Dr Mukta Kulkarni, dean of academic programmes and professor, Organisational Behaviour and Human Resources Management (OBHRM), IIMB, said, "Accessibility isn't just a disability issue, it is a social and economic opportunity. For example, investing in accessible public transportation and walkways not only serves persons with disabilities, but also supports parents with strollers, ageing populations, and workers with temporary injuries." ENS

APARTMENT FINED ₹1L FOR LETTING SEWAGE INTO SWD

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

BRUHAT Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao on Tuesday imposed a penalty of Rs 1 lakh on the Srinivasa Residential Complex in Sarjapura for directly discharging raw sewage into a stormwater drain. During an inspection, Rao also directed Mahadevapura zone officials to conduct an immediate drone survey to check encroachments on stormwater drains.

"Instructions have been issued to undertake proper desilting of stormwater drains in Mahadevapura. I have also directed the officials to monitor encroachments and assess the condition of drains," he said.

Officials have been asked to resolve pending land acquisition issues related to the development of a service road along Sarjapur Main Road, where road widening has already been completed.

At Iblur Junction, he reviewed ongoing issues, including pedestrian walkways. He directed officials to persuade landowners along the service road to cooperate with the land acquisition process and expedite the development work.

BBMP Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao on an inspection round in Mahadevapura

The main road from Iblur Junction to Carmelaram RJ Tech Park, spanning 4.7 km, was widened to 45 metres and asphalted in 2022. However, progress on the adjoining service road has been delayed due to challenges in acquiring properties through the Transfer of Development Rights (TDR) scheme, officials informed the commissioner.

In response, Rao told them to collect relinquishment documents from landowners who have agreed to the acquisition and formally transfer the land to the BBMP. He also called for the preparation of a detailed plan for constructing proper pedestrian walkways.

The chief commissioner also emphasised the need for comprehensive improvement of Iblur Junction, Haralur Road Junction and Kasavanahalli Road Junction during the visit.

While inspecting a waste transfer point near Cloud Nine Hospital, residents complained about night-time dumping of garbage. Rao instructed officials to install surveillance cameras at the site to prevent illegal disposal of garbage.

'Use cold mix to quick fix potholes'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

BRUHAT Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Administrator Tushar Girinath has instructed civic agencies to promptly fill potholes in the city with cold mix and eco-fix materials. At a meeting with officials on Tuesday, Girinath emphasised the need for swift action in tackling the menace of potholes, especially during the rainy season.

"In the eight BBMP zones, local contractors must be engaged to procure asphalt and complete the pothole-filling work promptly. Daily reports on the progress of pothole-filling work must be submitted," he said. Informing that road asphalting projects worth Rs 690 crore are currently under way within BBMP limits, Girinath instructed officials to ensure that the work is completed without any delay.

On flooding that proved to be the Achilles' heel of the Palike, he said during the monsoon, waterlogging is expected at 82 key locations. "Steps must be taken to prevent water accumulation on roads, and ensure smooth flow of rainwater into side drains," he said.

PETER VIDAL

04TH June : The Sun's neat relationship with Jupiter represents hope and optimism, not to mention independence and surprises. So, you can look forward both to a pleasant few days, and a twelve-month period when you will be seeing and experiencing the world in entirely new ways.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
This is a day for diplomacy, for sharing your feelings, plans and any good fortune with partners. This doesn't just mean spreading your net to include close friends, but also paying attention to people, perhaps at work, who could do with some emotional support.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
'Keep busy and stay active' should be your motto over the next two days. The Moon's angle to your sign is one of those which may not bring drama, but can push you step by step to a new and much more successful state of being. You might even hear something that makes you sit up and take notice of an old friend!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You may go through the day with a spring in your step, young at heart and confident that it is indeed possible to shrug off most cares and woes. It might be difficult to alter the attitudes of a lifetime, but you really should give it your best shot.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
It's time to consider exactly what to do about putting a deep-seated ambition into practice. There's no need for action just yet, but it will do you good to sort your ideas out and check the facts. And then you need to reassure a loved one who is feeling especially insecure.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
It's decision time, but the choices you'll make will probably be quite unimportant. You can therefore afford to take it easy, just as long, that is, as your communication skills are functioning on top form. What I mean is, you need to keep family members informed of your movements.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You should pay very careful attention to the financial situation. On a purely mundane level it's a fine day for picking up bargains, but what could be more significant is what other people decide about your monetary future - and that may be out of your hands.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The Moon is now aligned with your sign, so you can finally afford to dictate the pace. Your actions will be determined by your rapidly changing moods, so other people may be bewildered or perplexed when you alter your ideas. Perhaps they should be more flexible!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You have learned a lot more about self-preservation lately, probably due to Saturn's slow transit through your chart. A momentary lack of confidence will be overcome with renewed effort and determination. And if you do face insurmountable obstacles, it might be time to pause for breath.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You will finally convince other people that you do need their help and support. At work you may concentrate on the long-term picture, and don't let trivial details obscure your vision. And you should get on with practical improvements at home - after a momentary lapse.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Your main bone of contention relates to career or professional interests, but with the Moon so active you can probably make a success out of playing the diplomat. Realise that it is less important to push your own interests than to get other people to agree.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Long-distance developments seem to be the most important, and it's a suitable moment to get in touch with family members overseas. The legal situation may also need some attention, so check up on your rights. But that also means you have to be aware of your responsibilities.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Nobody seems to be able to lighten your burden at the moment. With Mars so active, only you can take the necessary steps to secure an independent future, and that means not relying excessively on partners for emotional support. Stand on your own two feet and your confidence will climb sharply.

Police enforce COTPA, collect fine of ₹21L

11,507 cases registered, 901 FIRs filed

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

CITY Police Commissioner B Dayananda on Tuesday said strict enforcement will follow the recent amendment to the Cigarettes and Other Tobacco Products Act (COTPA). Public smoking or consumption of tobacco or nicotine, including chewing substances, is banned.

Violators will be fined Rs 1,000, and shop owners who allow smoking in public places will also be fined Rs 1,000, he said. Under Section 4 of COTPA, there is a provision to book shop owners, and police have registered 11,507 cases and collected over Rs 21 lakh in fines.

Dayananda told reporters on the occasion of 'World No-Tobacco Day' that a three-day special drive was conducted to raise awareness. Campaigns such as street plays, rallies, and speeches were organised with the help of police officers, student police marshals, and volunteers. Additionally, 5,667 police personnel and 6,448 members of the public took a pledge on World No Tobacco Day.

Over 60,000 awareness posters were put up across the city to promote tobacco prohibition. The campaigns aimed to encourage citizens to quit tobacco for a healthy, safe life and stronger society. "Tobacco is a gateway to drug addiction and a cause of various types of cancer," he added.

Dayananda added that a special enforcement drive was also carried out across the city in wine shops, bars and restaurants, lodges, paying guest accommodations, and other public places. Under Section 4 of COTPA (smoking or chewing tobacco in public places), 11,324 cases were booked, and Rs 20,91,675 in fines were collected. Under Section 6A (selling tobacco products to individuals below the age of 21), 135 cases were registered and Rs 22,800 in fines were collected. Under Section 6B (selling tobacco products near educational institutions), 48 cases were filed, and Rs 5,000 in fines were collected.

When govt announces ZP,TP polls, our national leaders will decide and we will follow their directives

BJP and JDS may contest ZP, TP polls separately

At party meeting, many leaders wanted to go to polls alone: Regional party leader

ASHWINI M SRIPAD
@ Bengaluru

BJP and JDS, which are in an alliance in the state, may choose to go separate ways while contesting taluk and zilla panchayat elections, which are likely to be announced by the state government soon.

The alliance was formed ahead of the Lok Sabha polls and the two parties have been together in all later elections, including Assembly bypolls.

On the alliance partners likely to go separate ways, a senior JDS leader told The New Indian Express that during an internal party discussion, many opined that the party should go to the polls alone. "We may contest the polls separately, but at the time of electing presidents and vice-presidents, we will come together," he said.

"Let both of us contest. It will be a 'friendly fight'," he added.

"Many states don't have regional parties. But in Karnataka, in spite of losing polls and our prominent bases like Hassan, we still have a hold in the Old Mysuru region. As NDA partners, we will contest Assembly and other polls together. But as an individual partu, we need taluk and zilla panchayats," party sources said.

BJP too is preparing for the local body polls after the visit of party general secretary, Karnataka in-charge, Radha Mohan Das Agarwal. Party state president BY Vijayendra said, "We are a national party. When the state government announces the ZP-TP polls, our national leaders will decide and we will follow their instructions. In the next one week, we are going to complete the formalities of appointing district presidents of nine districts which are pending."

He said, "Once that is done, we will chalk out plans to strengthen the party for the polls."

Karnataka has 1,130 zilla panchayat and 3,671 taluk panchayat constituencies. The panchayat elections were last held in 2016 and have been due since 2021. They were delayed because of various reasons, including court cases, Covid and delimitation. A few months ago, the court had directed the state government to conduct the polls and ministers had been told to gear up.

No pay for months, NREGA contract staff on protest leave

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

NEARLY 4,000 contractual staff with the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee (MGNREGA) scheme have not been paid for the last five to seven months.

Though the staff, who are responsible for creating employment in rural areas under the programme, have approached top officials and appealed for the payment of pending salaries, nothing has been done.

The staff that have not been paid include engineers, Information, Education and Communication (IEC) workers and field staff.

With no sign of salaries, they have resorted to a protest and applied for mass casual leave, boycotting work. They have also staged demonstrations in front of zilla panchayat offices across the state. The tragic story is the same even in Mysuru, the home district of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah.

These coordinators are crucial in ensuring that the rural folk get 100 days of employment per year under the scheme.

Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Minister Priyank Kharge has written to Union Rural Development Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan for urgent intervention for the immediate release of pending wages, material and administrative funds to ensure livelihoods of lakhs of scheme beneficiaries and maintenance of administrative efficiency.

The lack of funds has affected routine operations, supervision and ground-level implementation.

Kharge stated that pending bills amounted to Rs 787 crore, while wage liabilities totalled to around Rs 600 crore.

While the government has set a target of creating 1.5 lakh mandays per month and around 3.5 lakh mandays in a few districts of North Karnataka, the strike by MNREGA staff will upset these targets.

The IEC staff create awareness, upload documentation of the work executed, while engineers inspect the work, and check quality before bills are raised.

An engineer, pleading anonymity, said they have worked without salary to ensure that the rural workers and the programme itself is not affected. "How can we feed our families when we have no other source to fall back on," he asked.

IEC coordinators said they could not go on field visits and show progress for the last few months as they had run out of funds. They blamed lack of coordination between the central and state governments as one of the reasons for the delay in releasing funds.

Mysuru Zilla Panchayat CEO S Umesh Kumar said they have asked the striking staff to return to work, hoping that the government might release salaries. The strike should not hamper the awareness programme, development works and creation of jobs, he added.

SIDDU GOVT DICTATORIAL, SAYS VIJAYENDRA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE government's actions are completely undermining law and order in Dakshina Kannada district and the coastal region, said BJP state president BY Vijayendra here on Tuesday, warning that should the government choose to use police force, instead of rectifying the issue, they will not simply stand and watch.

Vijayendra told reporters, "I discussed the matter with our national leaders last night, and our MPs and MLAs will be meeting senior police officers."

To a question on the recent deportation of several individuals in Dakshina Kannada district, he said, "Once upon a time, kings ruled this country, and we've heard of feudal lords. The current Congress government is running the state just like the feudal lords. Under Siddaramaiah's leadership, the government is operating an administration that stifles democracy."

State BJP president BY Vijayendra and other party leaders inspect Hemavathi express canal site near Tumakuru on Tuesday | EXPRESS

He alleged that after the murder of Hindutva activist Suhas Shetty, certain elements prevented Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara from visiting Shetty's family. "Women were also complicit in Shetty's murder, as seen in visual media," he said. "Three or four women stood on the road, helping the murderers and traitors get into a car and escape. What action has been taken? Have these women, who are accomplices, been arrested," he sought to know.

"We no longer believe there is an elected government in the state, nor that the police are maintaining law and order," he said. "An FIR has been filed against senior Sangh Parivar leaders — a clear conspiracy to intimidate Hindu leaders and activists. The police are harassing our activists at midnight. Is this democracy? Where are we living," he asked.

He accused the state government of tarnishing its own reputation by suppressing farmers' rights. "They are trying to silence the farmer protest over the Hemavathi river water issue using police force," he said.

"Sure, maybe one or two people threw stones, which is unacceptable, but the police are supposed to serve the public. Instead, they are using these incidents as a pretext to target our activists and farmer leaders, jailing them in a bid to crush the protest against Hemavathi river diversion," he charged.

"I and other party leaders will visit the protest site this afternoon. The Congress government has failed to provide any meaningful development and cannot even allocate funds properly. The collapse of law and order is a direct result of the government's own plans, all in a bid to hide its failures," he alleged.

Shobha: Stop harassing DK Hindu activists

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

UNION Minister of State for Labour and Employment, Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises Shobha Karandlaje has urged Justice NK Sudhindra Rao, chairman, Police Complaints Authority, to initiate immediate action to prevent police harassment of members associated with Hindu organisations in Dakshina Kannada.

In a letter to Justice Rao, Karandlaje expressed concern over the developments in Dakshina Kannada, where it has been reported that the police under the alleged pressure from the ruling Congress have been systematically targeting and harassing individuals associated with Hindu organisations. Even social workers, traders and ordinary citizens are not spared, she alleged.

According to Karandlaje, police officers reportedly visit houses of such individuals at night and take their pictures and of their houses with GPS links without any legal warrant. "These actions are in violation of the fundamental rights guaranteed under the Constitution, including the right to privacy and right to life under Article 21, as well as the right to equality under Article 14," she said.

Karandlaje said the conduct of police officers should be investigated and action taken against those found guilty of violating the fundamental rights of the people. "The Police Complaints Authority should ensure that policing in Karnataka remains fair, just and within the framework of law," she said.

Priyank terms BJP netas' apology fake

BENGALURU: RDPR Minister Priyank Kharge has criticised BJP leaders for apologising after making derogatory statements. They are doing it not because they regretted it, but due to the fear of law and people. Instead of feeling remorse, BJP leaders displayed their arrogance through apology. Behind their apology there is opportunism, fear of law, or pressure from the public, he stated. In his social media post, he said, "Their apology is fake and without any remorse." Criticising BJP MLC N Ravikumar, Kharge said the MLC, who apologised to the Kalaburagi deputy commissioner, went to the police station in a procession. Kharge said former BJP MP Pratap Simha, who had insulted actor Prakash Raj, had apologised because of legal pressure. "Vijay Shah apologised to Col Sofiya Qureshi because of the public outcry. Chalavadi Narayanaswamy, BJP MLC, who called me a dog, apologised because of the public outcry," he added. ENS

DKS says appointments to boards, corpns soon

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said on Tuesday that appointments to Boards and Corporations will be made soon.

"We will do it soon," the DyCM said, responding to a question on appointments to Boards and Corporations. Shivakumar said they have to accommodate about 500-600 party workers at the state level and that would be done after discussions with local leaders. As many as 4,000 party workers have been appointed to the guarantee implementation committees and 8,000 workers have been appointed to different committees, he said.

Almatti dam: On the issue of Maharashtra objecting to increasing the height of Almatti dam, Shivakumar said he would seek time from the Prime Minister and Union Jal Shakti Minister to discuss it.

He said Chief Minister Siddaramaiah will respond to Maharashtra CM Devendra Fadnavis's letter within two days. "Maharashtra CM Fadnavis is an intelligent person. He was in favour of the project in the past. I am surprised he wrote this letter now. Managing floods within a state is the responsibility of the state government," he added.

The Maharashtra CM had expressed concern that increasing the dam height could lead to floods in some districts.

Somanna writes to CM on Hemavathi project

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TUMAKARU MP and Union Minister for State for Railways and Jalashakthi V Somanna has written to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, urging the State Government to withdraw cases registered against several people, including elected representatives and seers, for protesting against the diversion of Hemavathi rievr waters to Bengaluru South district, bypassing Tumakuru.

Somanna also urged the CM to call for a special meeting with the elected representatives from Tumakuru to discuss the canal project and he too will attend the meeting.

Somanna said he wants the canal project stopped as farmers from Tumakuru region will be deprived of their share of water. "In spite of my appeal, the government did not stop the project which is unfortunate," he rued.

Somanna said this project has caused displeasure among people in Tumakuru. Instead of addressing their issue, the government is trying to restrain those who are protesting, including farmers and religious heads.

"Even Bengaluru Rural MP Dr CN Manjunath spoke to me and expressed concern over this issue," he said.

He urged the CM and Deputy CM DK Shivakumar, who is also minister for water resources, to hold a meeting with local representatives to discuss the pros and cons of the project.

He said experts from both sides of the divide, those who support it and those opposed to it, should be invited for the meeting.

After US import ban, areca leaf plate makers in doldrums

RAMACHANDRA V GUNARI
@ Shivamogga

THE areca leaf plate manufacturing industry has been severely hit by the US government's decision to ban import of the leaf plates. The US announced its decision and stopped importing the plates from May 8, citing the reason that a form of alkaloid in the areca plates makes them carcinogenic.

Apprehension is mounting among areca leaf plate manufacturers as well as thousands of labourers working in these industries.

Areca leaf plate manufacturing is one of the main businesses of Shivamogga district, considered the largest areca producer in the state. Leaf plate manufacturing is a secondary economic generator for areca growers, especially marginal farmers of Thirthahalli and Hosanagar taluks.

Shivamogga District Industries Association secretary Visveshwaraiah told TNIE there are more than 500 areca leaf plate manufacturing units in the district, that have employed 8,000 to 10,000 labourers. The tableware made from areca leaves was a great opportunity for areca growers, industrialists and thousands of labourers who have earned their livelihood through it for the past two decades, he said.

For traditional areca growers who own a minimum land area of half an acre to two acres, the plate manufacturing units presented a good opportunity of a secondary income, as they bought the leaves from them for a tidy sum, said Visveshwaraiah.

The hundreds of areca leaf plate manufacturing units are

> The food certification authorities of the US informed that the plates contain a kind of alkaloid which is carcinogenic in nature, which led to the ban
>
> Manjunath, SDALMA representative

a big source of employment for unemployed men and women in rural areas, where most of these units operate. "Semi-skilled labourers get a salary of Rs 6,000 while experienced and skilled labourers get a maximum of Rs 15,000 per month, which is the average package offered by these units, sources said.

This industry is also supportive of industries like dye making and fabrication in the district, said Visveshwaraiah.

Recently, office-bearers of the Shivamogga District Areca Leaf Manufacturing Association (SDALMA) urged the State and Central governments to intervene and talk to the US authorities to lift the ban on the import of areca leaf plates.

"The food certification authorities of the US informed that the plates contain a kind of alkaloid which is carcinogenic in nature, which led to the ban. But this is not quite true as these leaf plates have been used for many centuries in India," said Manjunath, of the SDALMA.

Another reason for apprehension among the manufacturers and labourers is that if European countries decide to follow the US and impose a ban, their business will be in great trouble. At least 17 countries import these leaf plates, so they are now looking to the Central and state governments to intervene, and hoping that the import ban will be lifted by the US.

WORDS TAKEN OUT OF CONTEXT, KAMAL WRITES TO KFCC PREZ

My intention was never to diminish Kannada in any way, says veteran actor

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE fire ignited by Kamal Haasan's recent comments on the Kannada language shows no signs of dying down. What began as a linguistic remark has snowballed into a full-blown cultural standoff, with political leaders, pro-Kannada activists and film associations across Karnataka demanding an unambiguous apology from the veteran actor.

Despite the growing outrage, Kamal Haasan has attempted to extinguish the flames with a two-page open letter addressed to KFCC President Narasimhulu. In the letter, Haasan expressed regret over the misunderstanding, clarifying that his statements were "taken out of context" and never intended to "diminish Kannada in any way". His intent, he wrote, was simply to highlight the unity of Indian languages and cultures, and not to create division.

"My bond with Tamil, Kannada, Telugu, Malayalam — and all languages of this land — is abiding and heartfelt," Haasan wrote, adding that he stands for the equal dignity of all Indian languages and firmly opposes any linguistic dominance. "Such imbalance undermines the linguistic fabric of the Union of India," he noted.

In a closing sentiment that echoed his cinematic legacy, Haasan wrote, "I speak the language of cinema, which knows only love and bonding... This love and bond — the same values my seniors instilled in me — is what I wished to share. It was out of this respect that Shivarajkumar graciously attended the audio launch, and I deeply regret the embarrassment he faced due to this controversy. Still, I am confident that our mutual respect will only grow stronger."

HC to Kamal: Are you linguist or historian?

Then the court said that Kamal's response was nothing but ego, but the counsel said it was not ego. The counsel said the petitioner is not insisting release of the movie in Karnataka at present unless an encouraging dialogue takes place with the Karnataka Film Chamber of Commerce, which has demanded Kamal's apology for undermining the sentiments of people of Karnataka.

Earlier in the morning session, the HC orally suggested Kamal to redeem the situation he created by way of an apology. "We will not permit anybody to take anybody's sentiments for a ride, that too by a public figure, we will not", the court orally observed. The HC also said it will not shy away from passing the order in law on the petition filed by RKFI.

The judge observed that "you (Kamal) should be aware of the situation while making the statement which leads to disharmony and unrest". Now you want the police protection to run your movie smoothly for the commercial interest despite the situation you created, saying that you have invested Rs 300 crore. If you don't want to apologise, why do you want to release (the movie) in the state?," the judge said.

Kamal's counsel played the video of the statement in question through a laptop to say that the statement was not intentional but the court was not convinced. The court also did not accept the letter by Kamal since nowhere he apologised for the statement he made.

COURT CITES RAJAGOPALACHARI

The court further orally observed that any citizen is very emotional about three things "Nela, Jala & Bhashe" (land, water & language). You may be Kamal Haasan or anybody or any citizen who has no right to hurt the sentiments of the masses. Are you (Kamal) a linguist or historian to make such a statement? Where does the material say so? What is the basis for such a statement? The then Governor General of India C Rajagopalachari apologised to the people for hurting the sentiments of the people of Karnataka for a similar statement 75 years ago. When a person like him apologises, why can't you? What the people of Karnataka are seeking is an apology. But you are not to apologise for putting an end to the issue... look at your attitude," the court told Kamal's counsel. The HC adjourned the hearing to June 10, after issuing notice to the state government and KFCC. ENS

HIGH COURT OBSERVATIONS

You (Kamal) should be aware of the situation while making the statement which leads to disharmony and unrest. We will not permit anybody to take anybody's sentiments for a ride, that too by a public figure, we will not.

Are you (Kamal) a linguist or historian to make such a statement? Where does the material say so? What is the basis for such a statement? What the people of Karnataka are seeking is an apology. Why can't you?

Theatres appeal to HC to ensure smooth release

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

WITH just days left for Tamil film Thug Life to hit the screens nationwide, a few cinema theatres in Bengaluru are learnt to be moving the Karnataka High Court, seeking protection to ensure the film's safe and uninterrupted release on its scheduled date, June 5.

In a writ petition already filed by Raajkamal Films International (WP No. 15589/2025), theatres are planning to implead and request police protection amid growing threats from Kannada groups opposing the film's screening. Theatres cite intimidation tactics, including threats of violence and property damage, should they proceed with the release.

One theatre chain, represented by its authorised signatory, is learnt to be filing an urgent impleadment application in the writ petition filed by Kamal Haasan's production company, urging the court to allow it to join the case as a petitioner. The theatre emphasised its long-standing reputation in providing entertainment to Bengaluru audiences for over two decades.

The applicant asserts its readiness to screen Thug Life from June 5, highlighting substantial preparations such as marketing strategies and logistical arrangements. It argues that any delay in screening could lead to severe financial losses, largely due to piracy. Theatres fear that a staggered release could prompt illegal copies to circulate online, undermining legitimate ticket sales.

Citing Article 19(1)(g) of the Constitution, theatres stress their right to conduct business free from threats and intimidation. They also emphasise the state's constitutional duty under Article 21 to protect life and property. The application seeks an urgent interim order directing the Bengaluru police and local authorities to provide dedicated security at theatres, and ensure peaceful screenings.

Four suffocate to death inside septic tank in Nabarangpur

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Umerkote (Odisha)

FOUR people were asphyxiated to death after being reportedly trapped in an under-construction septic tank in Nandahandi block of Nabarangpur district, Odisha, on Tuesday morning.

Police identified the deceased as N Santu (28), Amit Khura (30), Trilochan Bhatra (25) and Lalu Rana (26), all of Padalguda village. They were engaged in construction of a private toilet in Padalguda when the mishap took place.

Sources said Santu and Khura were working inside the under-construction septic tank when a false slab of the toilet collapsed on them. They were trapped inside and subsequently got suffocated. When the duo did not respond to calls, their associates Bhotra and Rana went inside the tank to rescue them. However, they too got suffocated and became unconscious.

On being informed about the incident, local fire services personnel and a police team led by Nabarangpur additional SP Aditya Sen and sub-divisional police officer (SDPO) Krushna Chandra Bhatra reached the spot and launched a rescue operation. The four were brought out and rushed to Nabarangpur district headquarters hospital (DHH) in critical condition. Hospital sources said Santu, Khura and Bhotra were declared brought dead by the doctors. Rana was admitted to the ICU but he too succumbed during treatment.

Police said an unnatural death case was registered in connection with the incident. Bodies of the deceased were handed over to their respective families after postmortem. Preliminary investigation revealed that the four died of suffocation. Chief district medical officer Santosh Panda also confirmed that the cause of the deaths was asphyxiation.

Following the tragic incident, a pall of gloom descended on Padalguda village. Villagers said the four deceased were the main bread earners of their families. They requested the state government to provide necessary financial assistance to the bereaved families.

Call for all varsities to lead climate action

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AMID growing concerns over rising global temperatures, social inequalities, and economic instability, there is an urgent need for collective action on sustainability, according to OP Jindal Global University's Sustainable Development Report 2025.

The report was released by Governor Thawaarchand Gehlot at the Bengaluru Sustainability Conclave here on Tuesday. It called upon universities to take a leading role in addressing climate challenges and outlines the university's progress in sustainability research, education and operations, in alignment with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

The report author, Prof Padmanabha Ramanujam, highlighted the role of higher education in sustainability leadership. "The report underscores that the country still lacks deep ideation in the field of sustainability. This places a greater responsibility on universities to shape the discourse and drive meaningful change," he said. According to the report, the university recorded 250 SDG-related publications, with a total of 14,939 citations and an average of 59.8 citations per publication. Leading researchers reached an H-index (a metric that measures the impact of a researcher's work) of 72, reflecting high-impact academic work. The report noted a 41% increase in scholarly output over the past year, with 15 out of 16 SDGs seeing growth in research contributions. Intergovernmental organisations accounted for 51% of the total citations, and the university's global research impact extended across countries including India, Germany and the United States.

The report also stressed interdisciplinary research, student involvement in practical sustainability projects and partnerships.

World's largest container ship to dock at Vizhinjam

UNNIKRISHNAN S @T'Puram

THE world's largest container ship, MSC Irina, is set to make its maiden call at the Vizhinjam International Seaport, with Captain Willy Antony, a native of Thrissur, at the helm.

The vessel has reached the outer anchorage, drawing excitement from the public as it is the first time the ship is calling at a port in South India. Captain Antony, 47, hailing from Puranattukara, is thrilled to bring the mammoth vessel-- equivalent in length to four football fields and capable of carrying cargo stacked as high as a 22-storey building -- to his home state. "It's a proud moment for me to command a ship of this scale," said Captain Antony. "This vessel and Vizhinjam are both dear to me. Bringing the ship to my own land doubles the joy," he said.

However, the vessel will have to wait for its turn to berth at the busy port as there are seven vessels already lined up for docking. Originally scheduled to dock on June 5, berthing may be delayed to June 7 or 8, said port sources.

Given its enormous size, the vessel -- owned by Mediterranean Shipping Company will require four tugs to assist in mooring, compared to the usual two. An estimated 4,000 containers will be handled during its stay at Vizhinjam.

The vessel's voyage included stops in Singapore, China, and South Korea before returning to Singapore. "Vizhinjam has the best georgaphical advantage for its natutal depth," Willy said. Despite the excitement of nearing home, Captain expressed disappointment that he and his crew will not be able to step ashore.

IISc develops nanozymes to prevent excess clotting

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A TEAM of researchers from the Indian Institute of Science (IISc), Bengaluru, have developed a new method which will help control abnormal blood clotting conditions, including Pulmonary Thromboembolism (PTE).

The team from Department of Inorganic and Physical Chemistry have developed an artificial metal-based nanosyme that mimics the activity of natural antioxidant enzymes which help in clotting blood.

The research paper — Vanadia Nanozymes Inhibit Platelet Aggregation, Modulate Signaling Pathways and Prevent Pulmonary Embolism in Mice — published on May 11 was made public on Tuesday.

It explained that under normal circumstances, when a blood vessel is injured, specialised blood cells called platelets get activated and cluster together around the vessel to form protective blood clots. This process is known as blood clotting cascade (haemostasis). But when this does not happen in conditions like PTE or diseases like Covid-19, the oxidative stress and levels of toxic Reactive Oxygen Species (ROS) increases, leading to over-activation of platelets. This triggers the formation of excess clots in the blood vessel, contributing to thrombosis, a major cause of morbidity and mortality.

The nanomaterials developed by the researchers mimic the activity of natural antioxidant enzymes and they control the ROS levels, thereby preventing the over-activation of platelets that leads to excess clot formation or thrombosis, the report stated.

The team synthesised redox active nanomaterials of different sizes, shapes and morphologies through a series of controlled chemical reactions starting from small building blocks. They then isolated platelets from human blood, activated them using physiological agonists, and tested how effectively the different nanozymes could prevent excess platelet aggregation, the researchers explained in the report.

Sherin GR, PhD student and co-author of the paper said, they found spherical-shaped vanadium pentoxide nanozymes were the most efficient. These material mimic a natural antioxidant enzyme called glutathione peroxidase to reduce oxidative stress.

"The unique chemistry of the vanadium metal is crucial because the redox reactions that reduce ROS levels are happening on the surface of the vanadium nanomaterial," added G Mugesh, Professor, and co-author of the paper.

The team injected the nanozyme in a mouse model of PTE and found that it significantly reduced thrombosis and increased the animals' survival rates. They also observed the weight, behaviour, and blood parameters of the animal for up to five days after injecting the nanozyme, and did not find any toxic effects, the report added.

Anti-platelet drugs that target thrombosis sometimes have side effects such as increased bleeding. "Unlike conventional anti-platelet drugs that interfere with physiological haemostasis, the nanozymes modulate the redox signalling and do not interfere with normal blood clotting. This means that they won't cause bleeding complications that are a major concern with current therapies," said Bidare N Sharath Babu, PhD student and another co-author.

GST COLLECTION HIGH A RESULT OF MATURING SYSTEM

THE goods and services tax collection crossing ₹2 lakh crore in May came in as a surprise. It's only the third time the gross monthly GST revenues have crossed the mark, that too at a time of immense economic uncertainty. The May high flows from transactions carried out in April, the month when Donald Trump triggered a major upheaval in global trade with his wavering 'reciprocal' tariff announcements. The latest figures show that despite the heightened uncertainty, domestic economic activities remained buoyant. Even trade picked up, as shown by a 25 percent growth in revenue from imports. The double-digit growth in GST is an indication of not just stronger economic activity, but also of a maturing tax system in which compliances are less burdensome and tax leakages fewer.

The total collection in May rose 16.5 percent, with revenues from domestic transactions growing by 14 percent to ₹1.5 lakh crore, while revenues from imports increased by a quarter to ₹51,000 crore. The net GST revenues, after deducting refunds from the gross collection, showed even better buoyancy as it increased by 20.4 percent to ₹1.74 lakh crore. The fact that the gross revenues in the first two months of the current financial year witnessed double-digit growth is significant, as collections in 2024-25 had shown a worrying trend of fatigue. Revenue growth in 2024-25 failed to cross the double-digit mark as the gross collection increased by only 9.4 percent.

If this monthly trend continues—as some have explained it should—the GST Council could be encouraged to bite the bullet on rate rationalisation, a long overdue reform in the indirect tax system. Rationalisation is not necessarily an exercise only in lowering tax rates on specific items, but also of removing anomalies like inverted duty structures and bringing down the number of rate slabs. Currently, there are five GST rates, adding to the compliance burden and leading to a mountain of litigation. Fewer rates should be the glide path the council should adopt. A matured tax system should not wear out taxpayers with onerous compliances, lengthy litigations and punishing rates. With sustained efforts of the government and the GST Council, the indirect tax system has evolved for the better over the past 8 years. Now is the time to iron out the creases that remain.

SPEEDY JUSTICE IN RAPE CASE A HOPE FOR OTHERS

THE recent verdict in the Anna University sexual assault case sentencing the convict to life for a minimum of 30 years without remission is welcome for the speed at which the police, prosecution and judiciary acted to deliver justice in five months. The brazen assault was committed on December 23 on the campus of the premier educational institution a stone's throw from the governor's residence in Chennai. The convict, food vendor A Gnanasekaran, raped the survivor, captured the assault on video and threatened to share it if she spoke up. The survivor, however, reported the crime to the police the very next day. Although the authorities initially failed her when the FIR briefly became publicly available, revealing her identity, she saw her case through to the end. The state faced the wrath of the Madras High Court for this, with the appointment of a three-member special investigation team to probe the case. The team filed the charges within two months of the crime, while the Mahila Court delivered its verdict in less than three months.

The case saw protests from students and political parties, with opposition parties insisting that the state allowed Gnanasekaran's "partners" go free. This is based on the survivor's account that he spoke to someone on his phone during the assault. However, the verdict held that Gnanasekaran had faked the call, pointing to evidence from the mobile service provider. It appears the SIT pursued every avenue despite the speed of investigation.

The quick probe and trial honour the survivor's courage and the faith she placed in the law. There are scores of women and children across Tamil Nadu and the rest of the country who have placed their faith in the system—only to endure years of investigation, trials that never seem to end, and a mirage in the place of justice. The Anna University assault shows what can be done when the state puts its will behind a case. If this will, in provisioning resources, support and pressure, can be exercised in every such case, the courage of every woman and child coming forward despite the trauma and stigma of sexual violence will be truly honoured. And India will be safer for it. After all, it is not the severity of punishment that is the true deterrent, but the certainty of it.

QUICK TAKE

NURTURING THEM YOUNG

AT the end of two hours on Sunday, a slammed fist sending chess pieces skittering summed up a tense match. Five-times world champion Magnus Carlsen was so frustrated with his loss to D Gukesh at Norway Chess that he wondered whether he should quit classical chess altogether. The sweetest moment came at the start, when four-year-old Gauri Asha, a Carlsen fan, was propped on a box so that she could make the first move for 19-year-old Gukesh. This, combined with the now-familiar story of the sacrifices Gukesh's parents made for their son's career, reminds us that the nurturing of chess prodigies begins very early, at home. May many Gauri Ashas bloom.

The rise of neoliberalism in the 1970s put the US's share-the-wealth ethic under a cloud. Indians' view of what America promises has changed drastically since then

AMERICAN DREAM WAS STOLEN LONG BEFORE TRUMP

SUGATA SRINIVASARAJU

Senior journalist and author of The Conscience Network: A Chronicle of Resistance to a Dictatorship

SOURAV ROY

EVER since President Donald Trump began unsettling the United States, commentaries in formal and informal exchanges have often sighed that the very idea of America has come under attack. The desperate sigh, that could cover miles and stretch across continents, makes a distinction to communicate the decline of the 'free world' and our times.

The standard progression of the narrative indicates it is one thing to target immigrants, foreign students, trade, environmental agreements, the military and monetary pacts. But to maul and dismantle the long-held perception of the US, which is willy-nilly linked to a certain rational construct, liberal ethos and cosmopolitan embrace, is a tectonic shift. If a nation ever had a fantastic marketing line in history, the US had it in the sublime phrase—'The American dream'. The suggestions emerging now are that the dream seems to be over; it has turned into a nightmare.

Although 'American dream' sounds almost like a truism, it has meant many things to many people both inside and outside the US. It's like a phrase with a universal semantic connotation, but the dream itself has been nuanced across generations. America allowed immigrants to chase diverse freedoms, liberty, the good life and democracy; while encompassing a Protestant ethic, an emphasis on individuality and individual success, and a certain meritocracy. It has also accommodated an unabashed worship of profit. People have picked what they wanted, depending on where they stood on the arc of their personal progress.

The idea of the American dream was nearly always about the young and their flaming aspirations. It excluded the poor, the disabled, the sick and the elderly. The phrase perhaps also taught one to play down hardships, pain, loneliness and a variety of discriminations to be perennially on a junket of celebration. That is because to challenge the positivity of the phrase meant to negate the choices one had made to chase the dream. This is especially true for an immigrant.

An immigrant in America constantly markets success, opportunity and purposefulness, which is argued as missing in the nations of their origin. It is this marketing pitch and mythology that has enticed millions to somehow reach the borders of the country, spending enormous sums of money on touts while surviving ghastly routes. One wonders if such people would ever get a return on their investment. Therefore, they choose to play for the future, for an un-guaranteed and distant comfort of their future generations. Ironically, for such people to merely survive also means living the American dream.

Only prosperous countries can create a dream like the one America has manufactured. This dream consumes every other dream. A top psychiatrist once told me there was nothing called an Indian dream because all such dreams were fragments of the American dream. America's biggest export has been its dream. No country in the world has put trade barriers and tariffs on it. It acquired a greater ring ever since the collapse of the Soviet Union. Although China has emerged in the last couple of decades, it has never been able to export a dream. When Covid struck, and people disparagingly called it the 'China virus', it mortally struck at the possibility of such an export.

Even within the US, people have long felt that the American dream has been 'stolen' because wealth distribution in the past half-century has become skewed. A minuscule percentage of Wall Street, Ivy League and Silicon Valley types are accused of having rigged the system. They argue that between the 1950s and the 1970s, the American dream had created "shared prosperity" and expanded the middle class. In 2012, Pulitzer-winning journalist Hedrick Smith even wrote a bestseller titled Who stole the American dream? Philosophers like Michael Sandel at Harvard have also questioned the meritocratic system—an inevitable component of the dream.

Historians and commentators have seen the 1970s as a decade of transition in the US when parts of the powerful American establishment started rethinking its welfarist idealism of the 1950s through the 1960s. They were plotting to impart a harder pro-business, laissez faire identity to the nation. This put the 'share-the-wealth ethic' under a cloud and aided the burglary of the American dream, eventually. From being an 'empire of production', it started moving towards becoming an empress of consumption. The loss of jobs argument that began then haunts America to this day.

In India, of course, the 1970s was the reverse. The Nehruvian-socialist dream had taken a crude turn. We were into nationalisation of nearly everything. The state was the final arbiter of nearly everything from industrial licences to prescribing the size of the family that one should raise. The Emergency was a part of this authoritarian micro-management of a nation's destiny. India's middle-class expansion came late, only in the 1990s. That is when we borrowed the American dream that was already in a crisis.

Even during the 1950s and 1960s America, although one section imagined the full bloom of the American dream, racial inequalities and segregation ensured the dream was a truncated, one-dimensional affair that cleverly brushed everything that disturbed the formulation under the carpet. Those who dreamt the American dream when the first waves of big immigration happened from India, notoriously labelled the 'brain drain', constructed the dream very differently. Economist J N Bhagwati even spoke of a 'brain drain tax'. They did not abandon their motherland, but had a constructive narrative that was about scouting for technology, enterprise and education to take back. Interestingly, rural development was a running theme among the conscientious who had migrated in the 1960s and 1970s.

All this, of course, changed in the mid-1980s when a new generation of Indian-Americans, quite naturally, grew independent of their obligations back home. Assimilation in American society became a far greater pull. In the next few decades, India became an important member of the global technology network. For Indians, the American dream changed yet again. The diaspora perhaps imagined that the 'brown' had escaped the humiliations of the 'black' and had found a seat at the high table of American destiny. They had become an aspirational class of power and influence back in India, which had become a back office for the American dream. (Views are personal)

AS CAMUS QUIZZED CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

SAAI SUDHARSAN SATHIYAMOORTHY

Advocate, Madras High Court

FEW lines in literature are as famous as the opening of Albert Camus's L'Étranger: "Mother died today. Or maybe yesterday; I don't know." The most famous work by Camus—an editor, playwright, novelist, journalist and, although he denied it, a philosopher—was rightly considered as a new start for European fiction. The stark tale of a pied noir, who kills an unnamed Arab and seems indifferent to his fate while facing execution, is a dense creation that deals with the themes of alienation, the crepuscular line between truth and lie, and capital punishment.

As the opening betrays, Meursault, the petit colon narrator, is distant even from the woman who bore him. He is engulfed with a weariness that a sociologist would categorise as anomie and the French call l'appel du vide (call of the void). He is inscrutable and intransigent even as he is imprisoned for murder. His is the strangeness of the forsaken, not the banality of someone excluded. He is condemned to death as he refuses to express any remorse for his crime. As Camus would later state, Meursault refuses to lie, which entails more than simply expressing something that is false. While we all do it every day to make life easier, Meursault refuses to disguise his emotions. He responds that he is annoyed rather than regretful, and that condemns him. He is left hoping for an indifferent crowd at his execution, only to be greeted with howls of execration.

For Camus, the death penalty exemplifies a profound violence that warrants our condemnation. It reflects the society's nihilism and "indifference to life", where justice is perceived as retribution—measurable and rooted in the talionic law, "An eye for an eye." It is, after all, true that we continue to define justice based on the principles of simplistic arithmetic. But as Camus questions, can it be asserted that the arithmetic is precise, especially when it involves the life of another man? The response must be in the negative.

The death penalty hides behind a veneer of righteousness, suggesting that justice is somehow always clear and definitive in a society that is without blame or blemish. As to the necessity to establish a precedent, the secret manner in which the state conducts executions at night undermines its assertion that these acts may function to dissuade the populace from similar criminal behaviour. However, courts in most countries harbour scepticism about such philosophising, as they realise that if criminal law is the middle child of jurisprudence, then the law governing punishments is its illegitimate offspring.

India's approach has, for long, been defined by the "rarest of rare" doctrine, which refers to the premise that the death penalty should be reserved for the most egregious and heinous crimes where no other punishment would suffice. While the famous Bachan Singh (1980) case introduced this doctrine, it has had antecedents. Justice V R Krishna Iyer aptly observed in the Rajendra Prasad (1979) case that the use of the punishment is on the belief that "social defence against murderers is best insured in the short run by caging them, but in the long run, the real run, by transformation through re-orientation of the inner man by many methods including neuro-techniques of which we have a rich legacy… It is cheaper to hang than to heal. But Indian life—any human life—is too dear to be swung dead save in extreme circumstances".

AFP

Albert Camus' apathetic, remorseless protagonist in The Stranger raised philosophical questions on society's view of the death penalty. Though Indian courts have followed the 'rarest of rare' doctrine for such sentences, justice should not be regarded as a price to be paid

Courts have used the doctrine in situations usually marked by extreme depravity and barbaric manner in which the crimes are perpetrated, coupled with the accused's absence of remorse. In Aloke Nath Dutta (2006), the Supreme Court acknowledged that "what would constitute a rarest of rare case" was to be determined on the basis of the facts of each case, even though "different criterions have been adopted by different benches of this court, although the offences are similar in nature".

The Supreme Court has affirmed death sentences on a number of occasions partly on the basis of lack of remorse, while simultaneously emphasising on the significance of reformation and rehabilitation of offenders as primary goals of the criminal justice system. In Mohd Arif (2014), while admitting a lack of cogency when it came to sentencing guidelines, the court quoted Immanuel Kant to acknowledge that the punishment was in itself the end: "judicial punishment can never serve merely as a means to further another good, whether for the offender himself or for the society, but must always be inflicted on him for the sole reason that he has committed a crime".

However, as Kant asserts in The Metaphysics of Morals, such a situation subjects the principle of justice to a calculation of interest and, consequently, to the assessment of a price. Ideally, justice should not be regarded as a price to be paid but as invaluable, existing beyond any form of calculation. It must be seen as being beyond even the value of life itself. Justice, after all, transcends sentimentalities—and, for that matter, existence.

Maybe we are not there yet. As the recent "artistic death" sentences lashed out by our courts would prove, we are very irascible about our sentimentalities and liberal with labelling. Or as Camus puts it, "in our society, any man who doesn't cry at his mother's funeral is liable to be condemned to death". (Views are personal)

Losses are not important, but outcomes are, says CDS in Pune

Gen Anil Chauhan says professional military forces are not affected by setbacks and losses

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

CHIEF of Defence Staff General Anil Chauhan on Tuesday asserted that "losses are not important, but outcomes are", days after admitting that India lost a few fighter jets during Operation Sindoor. "Professional military forces are not affected by setbacks and losses," he said while speaking at a special lecture on 'Future Wars and Warfare' organised by Savitribai Phule University in Pune.

"When I was asked about losses on our side... I said these are not important. The results are important. It would not be very correct to talk about losses. Suppose you go to a cricket match, and you win, by any means, then there's no question about how many wickets, balls, players," he said.

Highlighting adaptability as "an important constituent of a very professional force", he pointed out, "You should be able to understand what went wrong, need to rectify your mistake and go again. You cannot sit down in fear."

As this newspaper reported earlier, Gen Chauhan told Bloomberg TV on Saturday, on the sidelines of the Shangri-La Dialogue in Singapore, when asked whether Pakistan had downed an Indian jet or more in the course of Operation Sindoor, "What is important is that, not the jet being down, but why they were being down, what mistakes were made, that are important."

The CDS said, "The good part is that we can understand the tactical mistake which we made, remedy it, rectify it, and then implement it again after two days and flew all our jets again, targeting at long range."

While asserting that "numbers are not important", the CDS outrightly denied Pakistani Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif's claims that the Pakistan Air Force had shot down six Indian fighter jets, including four Rafale fighters, during the brief India-Pakistan clash.

"The thinking behind Operation Sindoor was (also) that Pakistan should not be able to hold India hostage to terrorism. India is not going to live under the shadow of terror and nuclear blackmail," he said.

"What happened in Pahalgam was profound cruelty... all victims were killed with headshots in front of their families and children, in the name of religion," he said, asserting that India has been the victim of most terror acts with almost 20,000 people killed.

Media advisory on privacy of senior officers, families

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE Ministry of Defence (MoD) on Tuesday pointed out "inappropriate" actions of media persons in approaching senior officers of the Armed Forces and their family members for covering their personal lives. The MoD's Directorate of Public Relations issued an advisory in this regard.

The DPR advisory, in the context of ongoing operations such as Operation Sindoor, said, "Media personnel have reportedly approached their residences, attempted to contact family members, and pursued personal coverage unrelated to their official duties," adding, such actions are deeply inappropriate and potentially compromise dignity, privacy, and safety of the officers and their families, who are private citizens and must be treated with due respect and sensitivity.

India can talk to Pak if it acts against terror, says Tharoor

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

CONGRESS MP Shashi Tharoor has said that India can talk to Islamabad if it takes significant action against terror infrastructure that is visible in the country. Tharoor, who is leading an all-party parliamentary delegation to Brazil, said the problem in holding talks with Pakistan is not the language but finding a common vision for decency and peace.

He said that his team successfully conveyed India's message against terrorism to Latin American countries, including to those who may have had some misunderstandings.

"This is what we keep telling our interlocutors. If Pakistan is as innocent as it claims to be, why does it give safe haven to terrorists? Why are they able to live peacefully, to conduct training camps... and radicalise people, to equip arms and get people to practice their arms and Kalashnikovs," he said.

"You crack down on this infrastructure of terrorism that is visible everywhere in your country. Then, of course, we can talk. We can talk to them in Hindustani. We can talk to them in Punjabi. We can talk to them in English. There is no problem in finding common ground with Pakistan. The problem is finding a common vision for decency, for peace. We want to be left in peace, to grow and develop. They don't want to leave us alone. They want to harass us," he said.

ACT ON TERROR INFRA

Shashi Tharoor said if Pakistan is as innocent as it claims to be, why does it give safe haven to terrorists? "You crack down on terror infra visible in your country. Then, of course, we can talk. We can talk to them in Hindustani. We can talk to them in Punjabi. We can talk to them in English..."

The Tharoor-led delegation will head to Washington from Brazil. On a question on the delegation's expectations from Washington visit, Tharoor said, "It is going to be a challenging visit. We have a lot of different kinds of audiences. Judging by some of the information floating around, we get some interesting and perhaps challenging questions, which we will be very happy to answer."

Tharoor in a post on 'X' said that the delegation had an intense day of meetings in Brazil that "gave us much to be pleased about affirmations of solidarity and goodwill for India across the board, both from the highest echelons of government and from the legislature". The team held a highly productive meeting with Senator Nelsinho Trad, President of the India-Brazil Friendship Front.

Whether nations have been recognising India's stance against terrorism, Tharoor said his delegation has been to four nations — Guyana, Panama, Colombia and Brazil — so far and "this has been very clear in all the countries we've been to".

"I would say in all four countries, we've had very clear success, if that's the word, I don't like to boast of success. That's for others to judge. But we've got our message through clearly, including to those who may have had some misunderstandings," he said, referring to Colombia.

Govt expected to move impeachment motion on judge in monsoon session

RAJESH THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE Modi government is expected to move an impeachment motion against Justice Yashwant Varma of the Allahabad High Court during the upcoming monsoon session of Parliament, scheduled to begin between late June and mid-July.

According to sources, senior BJP leaders have held several meetings in preparations for the proceedings against Justice Varma, in connection with a cash recovery case.

On Tuesday, Home Minister Amit Shah and BJP national president JP Nadda met with Vice-President Jagdeep Dhankhar. Law Minister Arjun Ram Meghwal has also reportedly discussed the matter with Shah. Recently, Shah met with President Droupadi Murmu, although no official statement on the meeting has been released.

Meanwhile, a source said that "the processes before tabling the motion are being completed."

Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju has also understood to have started discussions with all political parties to build a consensus on the matter, the sources said.

"The Centre is hopeful of getting all parties' support on the motion to impeach Varma. He has not yet resigned in spite of a Supreme Court-appointed three-member committee submitting its report," remarked another source.

It has been learnt that Meghwal may move the impeachment motion, which would be needed to be passed in both Houses of Parliament with a two-thirds majority. "Without the support of Opposition, the Centre wouldn't succeed in bringing impeachment. Consultations with other parties are likely to begin soon," said another source.

Finance ministry likely to approve 12% higher outlay for MGNREGS

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

THE Finance Ministry is likely to approve a 12% hike in the outlay of the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MGNREGS) for five years, as demanded by the Ministry of Rural Development, sources said.

Recent media reports have said that the MoRD has sought an outlay of ₹5.23 lakh crore for MGNREGS for five years until 2029-30 in its proposal to the Expenditure Finance Committee (EFC). EFC is responsible for appraising and approving schemes with significant budgetary implications.

Sources in the Finance Ministry said that the ministry may give a go ahead to the proposal and it will be finalised after Cabinet approval. In the previous five financial years from 2020-21 to 2024-25, the central fund amounted ₹4.68 lakh crore for MGNREGS.

For the 2024-25 financial year, the budget allocation for the MGNREGA was ₹86,000 crore, same as what was spent on the scheme as per the revised estimate of 2024-2025.

The findings of a recent report by LibTech India, showed that employment fell by 7.1% in 2024–25, despite an 8.6% rise in registered households, under the scheme. It showed only 7% households availed the promised 100 days of work under the MGNREGA scheme.

It also pointed out that average workdays dropped by 4.3%, and 100-day completion households fell by 11.9%. While states with the sharpest employment drops included Odisha (34.8%), Tamil Nadu (25.1%), and Rajasthan (15.9%), Maharashtra (39.7%), Himachal Pradesh (14.8%), and Bihar (13.3%) showed gains.

The report showed, though there was a 8.6% increase in registered households in FY 2024-25, it did not result in improved employment.

The report also suggested that Aadhaar Payment Bridge System (ABPS) ineligible workers are denied work, despite MoRD assurances.

It showed that 27.5% of all workers and 1.5% of active workers still remained ineligible for ABPS, only a slight improvement from the previous year. Maharashtra (63.4%), Gujarat (58.1%), and Jharkhand (38.1%) have the highest proportions of all workers ineligible for ABPS, it said.

Citing the report, Congress general secretary Jairam Ramesh recently said even as coverage of the scheme rises, perhaps due to the ongoing economic slowdown, the average number of days employment per household has fallen, he said in a statement. Ramesh said due to the worsening economic downturn, the budget must make adequate financial provision to realise the vision under MGNREGA.

Govt should ensure adaquate funds: Cong

Hitting out at the Centre, Congress said amid the economic downturn, the budget must make adequate financial provision to realise the vision under MGNREGA. New domicile, reservation policy for Ladakh; quota in autonomous hill councils

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

THE Centre on Tuesday issued a notification introducing new reservation and domicile policy for the Union Territory of Ladakh, reserving 85% jobs for the locals and one-third of the total number of seats in the Autonomous Hill Development Councils of the UT for women.

The notification, issued by the Union Ministry of Law & Justice, follows several rounds of talks between representatives from Ladakh and a high-power committee of the Union Ministry of Home Affairs led by Minister of State for Home Nityanand Rai.

Officials said the decision is aimed at protecting interest of people of Ladakh who have been demanding constitutional safeguards to preserve their language, culture and land after the special status of the erstwhile state of Jammu and Kashmir under Article 370 was done away with in 2019.

In the notification, the government said the proposed changes in the policies with regard to reservation in jobs, autonomous councils and domicile would come into effect immediately. "Under the new rules, those who have resided for a period of 15 years in the UT or studied for a period of seven years and appeared in class 10th or 12th examination in an educational institution located in the UT shall be domicile of Ladakh for the purposes of appointment to any post under the UT or under a local or other authority other than cantonment Board," it said.

Children of Central government officials, All India Services Officers, officials of PSU and autonomous body of Centre, Public Sector Banks, officials of statutory bodies, officials of Central universities and recognised research institutes of Central government, who have served in the UT for a total period of 10 years are also eligible for domicile, it noted.

In a separate notification, the Centre said in the Ladakh Autonomous Hill Development Councils Act, 1997, not less than one-third of the seats shall be reserved for women and such seats may be allotted by rotation to different constituencies.

Airspace can't be used as retaliatory tool, civilian flights not to be targetted

S LALITHA @ New Delhi

AIRSPACE must never be weaponised in conflicts, and civilian aircraft should never become casualties—deliberate or accidental—of military operations, said Nick Careen, Senior Vice President of Operations & Security at the International Air Transport Association (IATA).

Speaking at the IATA Annual General Meeting on Tuesday, Careen said that governments worldwide are working together to enhance coordination and establish clear global protocols to protect civil aviation in conflict zones.

"Governments must step up, enhance intelligence-sharing, and establish clearer global protocols to prevent such tragedies and safeguard civilian aviation," Careen said.

Citing rising threats to flight safety, Careen said, "There needs to be a better balance between connectivity and geopolitical issues that always puts national security and international law in the forefront. Instead, we see airspace used as a retaliatory tool."

The fallout from global conflicts is already hitting the aviation sector hard. In 2023, two civilian aircraft were shot down in Kazakhstan and Sudan, claiming 38 lives. The ongoing Russia-Ukraine war continues to disrupt European airspace, with up to 2,000 flights being rerouted or cancelled on an average summer day due to closed Ukrainian airspace and sanctions on Russia. That's about 6% of total daily network traffic, Careen noted. Another 1,500 flights are rerouted daily to avoid restricted airspace, causing logistical chaos and increased fuel consumption.

Conflict zones in West East, especially around Israel, have added to the crisis. In October 2024, multiple flights had to take emergency actions after encountering Iranian missiles aimed at Israel. "The presence of missiles in active flight corridors raised serious safety issues," Careen said.

These diversions not only impact safety but also have steep financial and environmental consequences, often making routes economically unviable for airlines.

However, the industry's troubles aren't limited to geopolitical conflicts. A severe shortage of aircraft and engines is crippling operations globally. As many as 1,100 aircraft under 10 years old—3.8% of the global fleet—are currently grounded due to engine issues, a sharp rise from just 1.3% before 2019. Most of these groundings are linked to PW1000G engine problems, Careen revealed.

Better co-ordination

When asked on the hailstorm incident on May 21 in which an IndiGo Delhi-Srinagar flight was involved, Nick Careen, Senior VP at the International Air Transport Association, said, "The learning from it would involve better co-ordination. I am sure that's something that would be under consideration."

Quad foreign ministers to meet ahead of summit

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

NEW DELHI is set to host a meeting of the foreign ministers from Quad nations—India, Australia, Japan, and the US—between late June and early July, sources said. The meeting will be attended by External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, Australia's Foreign Minister Penny Wong Japan's Foreign Minister Takeshi Iwaya and the Secretary of State Marco Rubio.

"The dates are on the works for the meet of foreign ministers of Quad. The window is between late June end and first week of July," sources said.

The timing of the meeting is seen as crucial, as it will lay the groundwork for the upcoming Quad summit scheduled to be held in India later this year.

The summit is expected to be a major diplomatic event, with Donald Trump slated to visit India as part of the proceedings. His visit, if confirmed, will mark a significant moment in India-US relations and is likely to draw global attention, given the evolving geopolitical landscape in the Indo-Pacific.

EC: Will provide faster voter turnout updates, reduce reporting delays

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

THE Election Commission on Tuesday announced that it was introducing a technology-driven system to provide timely updates on approximate number of votes cast, which would "significantly" reduce the time lag linked to the earlier manual reporting methods.

Under the new initiative, the presiding officer (PRO) of each polling station will be directly entering voter turnout on the new ECINET application every two hours on polling day to reduce the time lag in updating the approximate polling trends. It would be automatically aggregated at the constituency level, the EC said in a statement. The approximate voting percentage data will continue to be published every two hours.

"Notably, voter turnout data will now be entered into ECINET by PROs immediately after the close of polls, before they leave the polling station. It will reduce the delays and ensure that the approximate percentage of votes polled be available on the updated voter turnout app constituency-wise after the end of polls subject to network connectivity," it said.

The poll panel said the initiative is part of the EC's commitment to timely public communication, a priority repeatedly highlighted by Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar after he took over the office.

Under the Conduct of Elections Rules, 1961 (Rule 49S), PROs are legally required to provide Form 17C—a record of votes cast—to polling agents at the close of voting.

"While this statutory provision remains unchanged, the EC has put in place a parallel, non-statutory system used to provide approximate voter turnout data through the Voter Turnout App. In areas with poor mobile connectivity, data can be entered offline and synced once the network is available," it said.

Belgian embassy staff behind Bibi posters: Police

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

DELHI Police has identified a Belgian national posted at the Belgium Embassy as the individual behind "wanted" posters of Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu found in the high-security Chanakyapuri area where most diplomatic missions are located.

The posters appeared around 10–12 days ago, prompting an internal investigation. Authorities traced the act to a diplomatic passport holder from the embassy. Due to diplomatic immunity, no action was taken against the individual. However, the police have submitted a detailed report to the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) and the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA).

The incident has raised concerns given the sensitive nature of the area, home to several foreign missions and embassies.

PM to inaugurate Kashmir railway project on Friday

Modi to travel to Katra by train, flag off Vande Bharat train services

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi will inaugurate the 272 km-long Kashmir Udhampur-Srinagar-Baramulla rail project, connecting the landlocked Valley with the country's rail network, on June 6. This marks his first visit to Jammu & Kashmir after 'Operation Sindoor'.

"History in the making... Just 3 days to go! The mighty #ChenabBridge, the world's highest railway bridge, stands tall in #JammuandKashmir. Part of the Udhampur-Srinagar-Baramulla Railway Link (USBRL). Built to withstand nature's toughest tests. PM Sh @narendramodi to inaugurate the #ChenabBridge on 6th June 2025. A proud symbol of New India's strength and vision!," Union MoS PMO Jitendra Singh posted on X.

After inaugurating the Chenab bridge, the PM would travel by train to Katra, sources said. They said the PM will also visit India's first cable-stayed bridge over Anji Khad.

He will flag off the Vande Bharat train from Katra to Baramulla (north Kashmir) and another from Baramulla to Katra, they added.

The launch of the train service by the PM was scheduled for April 19 but was postponed owing to bad weather conditions.

PM Modi will then address a public rally at the Sports Ground, Katra, which is the base camp for the pilgrims visiting Mata Vaishno Devi.

Since it will be his first public rally after May 7 'Operation Sindoor', PM Modi is expected to talk in detail about the operation launched to avenge April 22 Pahalgam terror attack in which 26 lives were lost.

The launch of the train service will end 70 years of wait for direct train to Kashmir. Currently, train services are operational between Sangaldan to Baramulla in the Valley and from Katra to across India.

Due to security concerns, the trains would have to halt at Katra railway station and passengers would have to deboard there (whether coming from outside Kashmir or from Valley) and board another train for their onward journey.

The Vande Bharat train plying in Kashmir has been designed as per weather condition of the region. Due to security concerns, trains would operate only during daytime on the Kashmir route as security deployments are withdrawn in the evening.

The work on 272-km Udhampur-Srinagar-Baramulla rail project, entailing a cost of ₹41,000, was started in 2005-06.

The USBRL project involves 38 tunnels (combined length of 119Km). The longest tunnel (T-49) has a length of 12.76 km and is the country's longest transportation tunnel.

Gang selling traders' data busted in Surat

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

A nationwide scam involving the online sale of traders' GST data has come to light, with Delhi, Ghaziabad, and Noida identified as hotspots of a gang called 'Data Solution'.

The Surat Chartered Accountants Association (SCAA), in a letter to Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, revealed that sensitive GST data is being sold in packages – GSTR-1 for ₹8,000-₹10,000 and 2B, 3B, and e-Way Bill data bundled at ₹15,000 for a three-month period. The expose has triggered alarm over serious lapses in the GST system and sparked calls for urgent government action.

Rates vary based on the depth of information – ₹5,000 for basic data, ₹7,000 for more detailed sets, and up to ₹25,000 for premium access, including e-way bills and HSN codes.

The brokers operate from office-like setups in Delhi and Ghaziabad. Far from being a backdoor operation, these data dealers operate like firms, offering bulk packages of sensitive tax data to clients nationwide.

A leaked WhatsApp chat between a broker and a trader gave the game away. Sources indicate businessmen are purchasing their competitors' GST data to gain an edge while aspiring traders approach data brokers for financial footprints.

20% reservation for Agniveers in UP police depts okayed

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE Uttar Pradesh government has approved a 20% reservation for Agniveers in specific government jobs, including police constables, mounted police, fire personnel, and PAC constables, through the direct recruitment process. The state cabinet, presided over by CM Yogi Adityanath, on Tuesday also decided that Agniveers who complete their stint in the Army will be granted a 3-year age relaxation when applying for these jobs.

However, only permanent residents of Uttar Pradesh will be eligible for this benefit. The first batch of Agniveers is expected to be available for recruitment by 2026.

Finance Minister Suresh Khanna stated that states like Haryana and Odisha, as well as forces such as the CISF and BSF, offer 10% quota, making UP's offer the highest so far.

"States like Haryana and Odisha have offered 10% reservation to former Agniveers. The UP Cabinet has now approved 20% horizontal reservation, which is a bold and generous initiative," Khanna said.

The UP Cabinet has now approved 20% horizontal reservation, a bold and generous initiative... The reservation will be applicable across categories – general, SC, ST, and OBC

Suresh Khanna, UP finance minister

Khanna explained that the reservation would be applicable across all caste categories: "This is a significant decision. The reservation will be applicable across categories – general, SC, ST, and OBC."

Khanna said this initiative aims to ensure that Agniveers continue to make significant contributions to the state's security infrastructure after their military service. The Agnipath scheme, introduced by the Centre in 2022, aimed at short-term induction of personnel into the Army, Navy, and Air Force to reduce the age profile in these services. Uttar Pradesh's new policy is seen as being aligned with this scheme, further facilitating the continued contribution of Agniveers.

This reservation would provide Agniveers concrete opportunities within the state's security apparatus. Khanna said the move not only recognises their service but ensures they continue contributing to security after their military stint.

Gogoi named state Cong chief, thanks CM Sarma

When Lok Sabha MP from Jorhat Gaurav Gogoi took charge as the Assam Congress president on Tuesday, he couldn't help but take a not-so-subtle dig at CM Himanta Biswa Sarma, who has been lobbing one attack after another at him. Gogoi quipped, "Had the Chief Minister not been so busy with me in the last two to three years, my party would not have entrusted me with this responsibility." His appointment as the party's state unit chief comes in the backdrop of serious allegations made by Sarma that Gogoi's British wife is linked with Pakistan spy agency ISI.

The Assam police have registered a case against a man from Kolkata, Wazahat Khan Qadri Rashidi, for his alleged disparaging remarks about Goddess Kamakhya. L-G sacks 3 govt employees for J&K terror links

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

J&K Lt Governor Manoj Sinha on Tuesday invoked Article 311 of the Constitution to dismiss three government employees, including a policeman and a teacher, for allegedly engaging in anti-national activities. They are Sg Constable in J&K Police Malik Ishfaq Naseer of Malikpora, Anantnag, Junior Assistant in Health and Medical Education department Waseem Ahmad Khan from Srinagar and teacher Aijaz Ahmad of Bufliaz, Surankote in Poonch.

The order said the L-G is satisfied under sub-clause (c) of the proviso to clause (2) of Article 311 that in the interest of the security of the State, it is not expedient to hold an inquiry and dismiss the trio from services with immediate effect.

He has so far sacked over 80 government employees in J&K for alleged anti-national activities, invoking Article 311.

Former J&K chief minister and PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti posted on X: "Since 2019, hundreds of employees have been summarily dismissed without trial solely based on unproven allegations of so-called terror affiliations. While this iron-fist approach may create a façade of normalcy, genuine, sustainable peace can't be achieved by inflicting suffering on people."

'Free speech doesn't mean hurting sentiments': HC denies bail to influencer

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delh

THE Calcutta High Court on Tuesday refused to grant interim bail to social media content creator Sharmishta Panoli, arrested for allegedly making controversial remarks in the now-deleted videos targeting a community in the aftermath of Operation Sindoor.

The vacation bench of Justice Partha Sarathi Mukherjee said while free speech is protected, it must not cross limits that infringe upon sentiments of others. "The sentiments of a section of people of our country have been hurt. We have freedom of speech but that does not mean you hurt sentiments of others. Our country is full of diversity. Our country is diverse, with all persons from different caste, creed, religion... We must be cautious by saying this," the judge observed.

Justice Mukherjee directed the West Bengal government to produce the case diary related to the investigation on June 5, when Panoli's bail plea will be heard again. He further ordered that the investigation in the FIR lodged at Garden Reach police station – filed on May 15 by Wajahat Khan – will proceed, while all other related FIRs will remain stayed until further notice. The court also instructed the state to ensure that no additional cases are filed against Panoli over the same incident.

Panoli, a student at Symbiosis Law School in Pune with nearly 2,00,000 followers across platforms, was arrested on May 30 in Gurugram. She was remanded to 14 days of judicial custody by a Kolkata court.

According to the complaint, Panoli's video allegedly hurt the religious sentiments of the minority community and incited disharmony. The prosecution claims her remarks were made in the context of social media exchanges following Operation Sindoor– India's military response to the Pahalgam terror attack that killed 26, mostly tourists.

ESPIONAGE

Punjab man nabbed for selling military info to ISI operatives

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THE Punjab Police on Tuesday arrested a person, Gagandeep Singh from Tarn Taran, for allegedly sharing sensitive information about the Indian Army movement with Pakistan's Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI) during Operation Sindoor. He was allegedly in touch with 20 ISI operatives and direct contact with Gopal Singh Chawla, a Pakistan-based pro-Khalistan leader.

DGP Gaurav Yadav informed that Gagandeep alias Gagan, a resident of Mohalla Rodupur in Tarn Taran district, was apprehended by the Counter-Intelligence unit in a joint operation with the Tarn Taran police.

During interrogation, the accused disclosed that ISI handlers tasked him to gather sensitive information about deployment in border areas... He was also receiving monetary benefits for espionage activities

Abhimanyu Rana, Tarn Taran SP

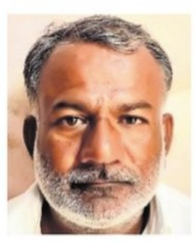
Preliminary investigations revealed that the accused was in communication with Chawla for the last five years. The latter introduced him to Pakistani Intelligence Operatives (PIOs). The accused shared classified information, including troop deployments, strategic locations, and army movements during Operation Sindoor, which posed a serious threat to national security, the DGP said.

The police recovered two mobile devices from Gangandeep. They contained sensitive intelligence that he shared with the PIOs, as well as details of over 20 ISI contacts. The accused received payments from the PIOs via Indian channels, he said, adding that probe is on to trace other linkages and establish the full scope of this espionage network.

Ex-aide of former Cong minister held on charges of spying

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

IN a case that's sent shockwaves across Rajasthan, the police has arrested Shakoor Khan, an Assistant Administrative Officer in the Jaisalmer District Employment Office on charges of espionage. Shakoor, a former personal assistant to ex-Congress minister Saleh Mohammad, was arrested under the Official Secrets Act, 1923, following weeks of intelligence tracking.



According to senior officials, Shakoor Khan was found to be in contact with former officials of the Pakistan High Commission, including Ehsan-ur-Raheem alias Danish. Investigations have revealed that, much like Haryana-based YouTuber Jyoti Malhotra – arrested earlier for similar espionage activities – Shakoor had direct links to several individuals associated with Pakistan's Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI). He reportedly met Danish multiple times at the Pakistan Embassy and was in touch with Sohail Qamar.

During interrogation, Khan has reportedly admitted to making seven visits to Pakistan in recent years, aided by visa arrangements facilitated by his contacts in the Pakistani embassy. Intelligence sources confirmed that he maintained regular WhatsApp communication with at least 13 ISI-linked operatives. He allegedly shared sensitive information about Indian Army movements and even helped send other individuals to Pakistan.

The arrest triggered a political row in Rajasthan with the BJP pointing out Khan's past association with a former Congress minister.

13 from free coaching centre crack JEE Advanced

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

IN an impressive feat, 13 students from government schools, coached free at the state-level 'Akanksha Programme' in Ranchi, have cleared the IIT-JEE Advanced this year. They are now eligible for admission to the prestigious Indian Institutes of Technology (IITs).

The students come from Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes. Two of them figured in the top 1,000 list of successful candidates. Rajeev Kumar, belonging to the Economically Weaker Sections, secured the 436th rank, while tribal student Vishal Hansda stood 784th.

Their success, despite a stringent question paper this year, is being attributed to the rigorous coaching they underwent in the Aakanksha Programme.

District Education Officer Vinay Kumar said, "It all became possible due to the regular classes conducted at Akansha by the best faculty available. The environment is such that students are attentive and disciplined, without distraction."

Students passing the Class 10 board exam from Jharkhand Autonomous Council (JAC) are eligible to sit for the Akanksha entrance test.

Kumar said the prospective candidates go through a two-stage filtration – first by the JAC and then the entrance test. Given the hard work the candidates put in during the preparatory two years, he expected better results, he said.

The Akanksha Programme, a government initiative since 2016-17, follows a rigorous selection process to identify the best students. The School Education department organises the entrance test for Class 11 students of government schools across Jharkhand.

Forty students are selected for the engineering and medical streams. They get free boarding and tuitions for classes 11 and 12, along with free residential coaching for engineering and medical entrance examinations.

The idea behind the initiative is to create an inclusive learning atmosphere for children from economically backward classes who cannot afford private coaching to take entrance exams. It gives them a level playing field to compete with students from affluent sections.

Russia: No quick breakthrough possible

MOSCOW

RUSSIA on Tuesday said it was wrong to expect a quick breakthrough in Ukraine talks, a day after Moscow rejected Kyiv's call for an unconditional ceasefire at negotiations in Istanbul.

The sides agreed on a large-scale swap of captured soldiers and exchanged their roadmaps to peace, or so-called "memorandums", at the discussions, which lasted under two hours.

More than three years into Russia's offensive -- which has killed tens of thousands on both sides and forced millions from their homes in eastern Ukraine -- the two sides appear as irreconcilable as ever.

"The settlement issue is extremely complex and involves a large number of nuances," Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov told reporters on Tuesday.

"It would be wrong to expect immediate solutions and breakthroughs," he added. Moscow demanded Ukraine pull its troops out of four eastern and southern regions that Moscow claims to have annexed as a precondition to pausing its offensive, according to the document handed to the Ukrainians that was published by Russian state media.

Kyiv pressed for a full and unconditional ceasefire. Russia instead offered a partial truce of two to three days in some areas of the frontline, its top negotiator said after the talks. Elsewhere, a Russian attack targeted the Ukrainian city of Sumy on Tuesday, killing at least three people and leaving many injured, officials said. Zelenskyy denounced the assault, saying it underscored that Moscow has no intentions of halting the three-year war.

On the other side, Russia on Tuesday said Ukraine was behind rail blasts in its western border regions that derailed a passenger train, killing seven people and wounding dozens more at the weekend.

The deadly explosion in Russia's Bryansk region that borders Ukraine caused a road bridge to collapse onto a railway line late Saturday and derail a passenger train, the authorities said. "The terrorists, acting on the orders of the Kyiv regime, planned everything with maximum precision so that hundreds of innocent civilians would come under their attacks," a Kremlin spokesperson said. AP & AFP

HAMAS SAYS ISRAELI FIRE AT AID CAMP KILLS 27, 90 HURT

Israeli military denies opening fire on civilians, launches a probe

Palestinians carry bags filled with food and humanitarian aid provided by Gaza Humanitarian Foundation in Khan Younis, southern Gaza Strip, on Tuesday | AP

RAFAH

PALESTINIAN health officials and witnesses said Israeli forces fired on people as they headed toward an aid distribution site on Tuesday, killing at least 27, in the third such incident in three days. The army said it fired "near a few individual suspects" who left the designated route, approached its forces and ignored warning shots.

The near-daily shootings have come after an Israeli and US-backed foundation established aid distribution points inside Israeli military zones, a system it says is designed to circumvent Hamas. The United Nations has rejected the new system, saying it doesn't address Gaza's mounting hunger crisis and allows Israel to use aid as a weapon.

The Israeli military denied opening fire on civilians or blocking them from reaching the aid sites.

The Gaza Humanitarian Foundation, which operates the sites, says there has been no violence in or around them. On Tuesday, it acknowledged that the Israeli military was investigating whether civilians were wounded "after moving beyond the designated safe corridor and into a closed military zone," in an area that was "well beyond our secure distribution site."

There were three children and two women among the dead, according to Mohammed Saqr, head of nursing at Nasser Hospital.

The shootings all occurred at the Flag Roundabout, around a kilometer (1,000 yards) from one of the GHF's distribution sites in the now mostly uninhabited southern city of Rafah. The entire area is an Israeli military zone where journalists have no access outside of army-approved embeds.

Yasser Abu Lubda, a 50-year-old displaced from Rafah, said the shooting started around 4 a.m. on Tuesday and that he saw several people killed or wounded.

Neima al-Aaraj, a woman from Khan Younis, said the Israeli fire was "indiscriminate." "After the martyrs and wounded, I won't return," she said. "Either way we will die."

Rasha al-Nahal, another witness, said "We'd rather die than deal with this," she said. "Death is more dignified than what's happening to us."

The Israeli military meanwhile said three of its soldiers were killed in an explosion in the Jabaliya area in northern Gaza on Tuesday. AP

UN CONDEMNS LOSS OF LIVES AT AID SITE

Gaza: Jeremy Laurence, a spokesman for the Office of the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights, told reporters in Geneva that it is not acceptable that 27 people were killed, including three children and two women, at an aid distribution site. "Palestinians have been presented the grimmest of choices: die from starvation or risk being killed while trying to access the meagre food that is being made available through Israel's militarized humanitarian assistance mechanism," Volker Türk, the U.N. High Commissioner for Human Rights, said

Dutch govt falls as far-right leader Wilders quits coalition

THE HAGUE

FAR-RIGHT leader Geert Wilders brought down the Dutch government Tuesday by pulling out of a shaky coalition in a row over immigration, sparking a political crisis and likely heralding fresh elections.

The withdrawal came just weeks before a NATO summit in the Netherlands, and ushered in a period of uncertainty for the European Union's fifth-largest economy and major exporter.

After a stormy last-ditch meeting aimed at salvaging the four-party coalition, Wilders emerged to say he had no choice but to pull his ministers out of the cabinet.

"I signed up for the strictest asylum policy, not for the downfall of the Netherlands," said Wilders, 61, whose far-right Freedom Party (PVV) handily won elections in November 2023. Prime Minister Dick Schoof described the decision as "unnecessary and irresponsible" and said he would offer the resignation of the PVV ministers to King Willem-Alexander. AFP

Analysts see another 25 bps rate cut

As inflation remains at subdued level, monetary easing by the MPC is likely to continue

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

AS the Monetary Policy Committee of the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) sits down to deliberate on interest rates for three days, beginning Wednesday, it will have its eyes firmly on external factors, which is the biggest risk currently at sight for growth in India. Keeping in view the fact that inflation is under control, most analysts believe the rate-setting panel might cut the repo rate by another 25 bps.

With consumer price index (CPI) based inflation forecast to trail 4% for a large part of this fiscal, monetary easing by the MPC is likely to continue. A 25 bps rate cut is expected this week, followed by two more cuts over the subsequent two policy reviews, taking the repo rate to 5.25% by the end of the cycle.

With growth below trend and inflation below target, we believe policy rates will need to move into the accommodative zone rather than neutral, says a report by Nomura.

"As such, we expect an additional 100 bps rate cut to a terminal rate of 5.00%, with 25 bps cuts in each of June, August, October and December," it says.

Nomura underscored the fact its projection for both GDP growth and inflation are lower than the RBI estimates. Nomura predicts India's GDP to grow at 6.2% against RBI's projection of 6.5%, and FY26 inflation to be 3.3% against 4% predicted by the RBI.

"RBI would be one of few central banks which are in a comfortable position to ease policy rate with the dual mandate of inflation at 4% and supporting growth not in conflict," says Gaura Sen Gupta, chief economist, IDFC first Bank.

IDFC First Bank expects another 25 bps cut in the forthcoming MPC meet. Gaura Sen Gupta expects the overall tone of the policy to be positive on growth both consumption and investment. "Based on our FY26 CPI estimate of 3.5%, we see terminal repo rate at 5.25%," says Sen Gupta.

According to Aditi Nayar, chief economist and head of research & outreach at ICRA, with CPI inflation forecast to trail 4% for a large part of this fiscal, monetary easing by the MPC is likely to continue. "A 25 bps rate cut is expected this week, followed by two more cuts over the subsequent two policy reviews, taking the repo rate to 5.25% by the end of the cycle," she says.

However, SBI has been hoping for a 50 bps cut. Domestic liquidity and financial stability concerns have receded, inflation is expected to stay within the tolerance band, and therefore, keeping the domestic growth momentum intact should be the main policy focus and provides the justification of a jumbo rate cut, it argues.

Mkt falls for 3rd session amid global cues, profit booking

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

DOMESTIC equity markets extended their decline for a third straight session on Tuesday, dragged down by broad-based selling pressure and profit booking at elevated levels. Weak global cues, lingering geopolitical tensions, and currency market volatility-fuelled by a softening US dollar further dampened investor sentiment.

Despite a positive opening, market sentiment turned weak in the second half. The Nifty 50, after hitting an intraday high of 24,845, settled at 24,542.50, down 174 points or 0.70%, from the previous day's closing. The BSE Sensex mirrored similar trends, closing at 0.78% lower at 80,737.51. The benchmarks have fallen about 1.4% each in the past three sessions.

The broader indices showed a mixed trend — the smallcap index closed almost flat, while midcap lost nearly half a percent. Sectorally, most indices closed in the red. The Nifty Realty index was the outliner, gaining 1%, supported by investor interest in housing and commercial realty segments amid favourable demand. Vinod Nair, research head, Geojit Investments, said profit booking is evident across sectors, except for realty stocks. "Mid- and small-cap stocks are seeing relatively less consolidation than large caps due to better earnings growth & moderation in premium valuation. While short-term consolidation is likely to persist, strong domestic oriented players are estimated to provide outperformance against external volatility," added Nair. Ajit Mishra – SVP, research, Religare Broking, said the ongoing foreign fund outflows, coupled with weak global cues like geopolitical tensions and uncertainty over trade deals, are adding pressure to the markets.

Bajaj Broking said the Nifty index has formed a bear candle signalling profit booking at higher levels as index failed to sustain above 24,800 and gave up its initial gains to close near the low. "The index closed below 20 days EMA for the first time since April 15, 2025. We expect the index to extend the last 15 sessions consolidation in 24,400–25,080 zone," added the brokerage. Among individual stocks, shares of Adani Group firms fell up to 2.5% on Tuesday following a Wall Street Journal report which stated US prosecutors were probing whether Adani group firms imported Iranian LPG into India via their Mundra port in Gujarat. An Adani spokesperson called the report "baseless and mischievous".

Hyundai, Kia offload stake in Ola Electric via block deal

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

SOUTH KOREAN automakers - Hyundai Motor and Kia Corporation - have divested their entire shareholding in Ola Electric Mobility through block deals, marking a strategic exit from the loss-making electric two-wheeler manufacturer.

Hyundai sold 10.8 crore shares at ₹50.70 apiece, amounting to ₹552 crore, while Kia sold 2.7 crore shares at ₹50.55 each, amounting to ₹138 crore, showed NSE bulk deal data. Shares of Ola Electric closed 8.12% lower at ₹49.33 on the BSE on Tuesday,

As of March 2025, BSE data shows that Hyundai held a 2.4% public stake in the company. Citigroup Global Markets Mauritius purchased 8.61 crore shares at ₹50.55 per share, thus investing ₹437 crore investment in Ola Electric.

The exit by Hyundai and Kia comes days after Ola Electric reported that its losses more than doubled to ₹870 crore in the fourth quarter of financial year 2025 (Q4FY25) as against ₹416 crore loss reported in the same quarter of last fiscal (Q4FY24). The company's revenue from operations dropped 59.5% year-on-year to ₹716 crore.

The fall in and bottomline and topline performance is primarily attributed to a sharp decline in sales amid increasing competition from legacy players. Vehicle deliveries came down to 51,375 units in Q4FY25 from 115,000 units in Q4FY24.

The company, however, claims to have retained market leadership for FY25, with full-year deliveries coming at 359,000 units, up from 329,000 a year earlier.

HDB Financial Services, five others receive Sebi approval to launch IPO

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

HDB Financial Services, a subsidiary of HDFC Bank, Vikram Solar and four other entities have received market regulator Sebi's nod to raise funds through initial public offering (IPO).
The other companies that received Sebi's approval are A-One Steels India, Shanti Gold International, Dorf-Ketal Chemicals and Shreeji Shipping Global Limited.

These six companies, which filed their preliminary public offer papers with Sebi between October 2024 and January 25, 2025, obtained their observations during May 27-30. In Sebi's parlance, obtaining observations means go ahead to float the public issue.

As for HDB Financial Services, its proposed public issue is a combination of a fresh issue of equity shares worth ₹2,500 crore and an offer-for-sale (OFS) of ₹10,000 crore by promoter HDFC Bank, according to the draft red herring prospectus (DRHP).

Currently, HDFC Bank holds 94.36% stake in HDB Financial Services, a non-banking financial company (NBFC). The company proposes to utilise the proceeds from the fresh issue to strengthen its Tier-I capital base. This will support future capital needs, including additional lending, to support business growth. Vikram Solar's IPO is a mix of fresh issue of shares up to ₹1,500 crore and an offer-for-sale (OFS) of up to 17.45 million equity shares by promoter and promoter group selling shareholders.

Dorf-Ketal Chemicals has received approval to launch a ₹5,000 crore IPO, which includes a ₹1,500 crore fresh issue and a ₹3,500 crore OFS by its promoter entity, the Menon Family Holdings Trust. The company supplies chemicals used in oil and gas, refining, and petrochemicals industries across international markets.

A-One Steels India has received Sebi's nod for its ₹650 crore IPO.

JAPAN

BOJ TO RAISE RATES IF GROWTH RE-ACCELERATES

Bank of Japan Governor Kazuo Ueda said on Tuesday the central bank will raise interest rates once it is convinced that economic and price growth will re-accelerate after a period of stagnation. Ueda also stated that the BOJ will continue to taper its huge bond buying even after an existing plan running through March expires, underscoring its resolve to stay on course for a slow but steady withdrawal of ultra-easy policy. The hit from higher US tariffs on Japan's economy could first come from a drop in exports, which could hurt corporate profits and consumer sentiment, Ueda said. The BOJ ended a massive stimulus last year and in January raised short-term interest rates to 0.5% on the view Japan was on the cusp of durably hitting its 2% inflation target. While the central bank has signalled a readiness to raise rates further, the economic repercussions from higher U.S. tariffs forced it to cut its growth forecasts in May.

CHINA

MAY FACTORY ACTIVITY SHRINKS

China's manufacturing activity in May fell at its fastest pace since September 2022, a private survey showed on Tuesday. A sharper fall in export orders was due to the impact of prohibitive US tariffs. The Caixin/S&P Global manufacturing purchasing managers' index came in at 48.3, dropping sharply from 50.4 in April. It fell below 50, the mark that separates growth from contraction, for the first time since September last year. The decline in foreign demand accelerated in May, with the gauge for new export orders falling to its lowest level since July 2023, Caixin said. Total new orders, an indicator of overall demand, also contracted for the first time in eight months. The job market remained grim, with employment shrinking for the second straight month and at the fastest clip since January, as per the survey.

MALAYSIA

ECONOMIC GROWTH REMAINS STEADY IN Q1, 2025

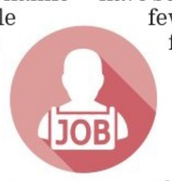
Backed by services, manufacturing, and export performance, the 4.4% GDP growth offers cautious optimism for the months ahead. Malaysia's economy stayed resilient in early 2025, with GDP expanding by 4.4% in the first quarter, as per the Department of Statistics Malaysia (DOSM). This was a slight fall from the previous quarter's 4.9% but still reflects steady progress amid a volatile global climate, including new tariffs in the US that sparked a chain of retaliatory measures worldwide. Despite these headwinds, Dato'Mohd Uzir Mahidin, Chief Statistician Malaysia, said the services sector continued to drive growth, followed by manufacturing and construction. On a monthly basis, the economy grew 3.5% in January and 3.6% in February, before accelerating to 6% in March. Malaysia's Industrial Production Index (IPI) grew by 3.2% YoY in March 2025, driven by stronger output in manufacturing (up 4%) and mining (up 1.9%).

Layoffs at Microsoft again, weeks after snipping 3% workforce

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

MICROSOFT announced another round of layoffs, weeks after reducing nearly 3% of its global workforce. The tech giant cut 305 jobs, in addition to the nearly 6,000 positions Microsoft eliminated earlier this year.

The company eliminated nearly 10,000 roles throughout 2023. As per a filing with Washington state's Employment Security Department, 305 additional employees in Redmond were let go. A Microsoft spokesperson confirmed these layoffs were separate from the company's earlier round, which impacted 6,000 employees worldwide. The latest cuts, however, represented "significantly less than 1%" of Microsoft's total global headcount. The company said it was implementing organisational changes necessary to best position the company for success in a dynamic marketplace. It said while AI was not cited as the cause, it continued to use technology to help employees focus on "the most meaningful and important tasks."



Reportedly, most of the staff impacted in this round of layoffs were not in managerial roles. Software engineers and product managers appeared to have been hit the hardest, while fewer than 17% of the affected workers were in management positions. Microsoft employed about 228,000 people globally till last year.

In 2025 alone, a number of tech companies across Silicon Valley, including Google, Meta, and Amazon, laid off thousands of employees. Earlier this year, it had made some performance-based job cuts, but Microsoft later clarified that the more recent layoffs in May of that year were not related to individual performance. While Microsoft hadn't detailed which departments were affected in this latest round, the message was clear: the company was recalibrating to stay competitive — and leaner—in a rapidly changing tech landscape.

Warburg gets CCI nod for 10% in IDFC First Bank

NEW DELHI: Fair trade regulator CCI on Tuesday cleared private equity major Warburg Pincus' proposal to acquire 10% stake in IDFC First Bank. Warburg Pincus, via its arm Currant Sea Investments, is acquiring a stake in IDFC First Bank. Rising satellite launches causing orbital congestion, says MoS communications

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

THE growing number of satellites in low-Earth orbit (LEO) is leading to increasing orbital congestion and presenting new risks, said Minister of State for Communications Chandra Sekhar Pemmasani on Tuesday.

The minister, while speaking at the 11th BRICS Communications Ministers' Meeting, emphasized that these challenges are not just technical, but also evolving into significant geopolitical concerns.

"..rising satellite density—especially in low-Earth orbit—has brought new risks: orbital congestion, signal interference, and spectrum monopolization. These are not just technical issues but growing geopolitical concerns," said Pemmasan.

With companies like Starlink, OneWeb, and Project Kuiper launching thousands of satellites to expand global satellite communication networks, the minister underscored the need for international cooperation. "Thousands of satellites now form a digital nervous system above us, predicting storms, connecting remote communities, and delivering life-saving disaster alerts," said the minister. During his address, the minister also highlighted the Digital Bharat Nidhi scheme, one of the world's largest rural connectivity initiatives. He noted that over 218,000 village councils are now connected via optical fiber, helping transform rural India into an integral part of the digital economy. Pemmasani emphasized that India has not only adopted but also mastered indigenous 4G technology.

Tata strengthens hold in EV mkt with Harrier.ev

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

TATA MOTORS on Tuesday launched the much-awaited Harrier.ev in an effort to strengthen its position in India's electric vehicle (EV) market. The move comes as rival carmakers such as JSW MG Motor and Mahindra & Mahindra ramp up their EV offerings, chipping away at Tata's once-dominant market share.

Just a year ago, Tata Motors commanded 73% of India's electric passenger vehicle market. However, a surge in rival launches and their quick adoption by EV buyers has eroded Tata's lead, making the Harrier.ev a crucial addition to its lineup.

Tata Motors' EV sales fell 15% in May 2025 as it delivered 4,316 units as against 5,083 in the same month last year. This decline reduced its share in the small but fast-growing EV market to 35%. In contrast, JSW MG Motor India's share in this segment rose to 30% share as its sales, thanks to the high demand for its Windsor model, grew by 159% YoY to 3,737 units.

M&M, which commenced deliveries of the BE 6 and XEV 9E in March this year, sold 2,605 EVs in May 2025, boosting its market share to 21%. It has delivered 10,000 units of these models since deliveries began on March 20.

Tata Motors Passenger Vehicle and Tata Passenger Electric Mobility MD Shailesh Chandra recently said they have aspirations to have more than 50% market share in the EV market in the mid-to-long term. "We would aspire to be at a 50 per cent market share by having a very wide product portfolio and products which are aligned to the expectation of the customers," he stated.

Booking for new EV to commence from July 2

Booking for the new EV will commence from July 2. Chandra said with the model, the company expects to attract a new set of customers, right from small-time explorers to off-road enthusiasts. Harrier.ev will target customers from the mainstream premium SUV segment, which currently witnesses sales of around 25,000 units per month

Tata Motors plans to follow Harrier.ev launch with the Sierra EV this fiscal and Avinya-branded models 2027, as part of its strategy to maintain leadership in the EV space. However, the market is expected to turn highly competitive as India's largest carmaker – Maruti Suzuki (MSIL) is all set to launch its first electric SUV this year.

The Harrier.ev carries an introductory price tag of Rs 21.49 lakh (ex-showroom). Built on the Gen 2 acti.ev+ architecture, the EV comes with two battery options, 65 kWh and 75 kWh. It has a claimed IDC range of up to 627 km on a single charge. Tata Motors claims that the Harrier.ev will redefine performance.

Booking for the new EV will commence from July 2. Chandra said with the model, the company expects to attract a new set of customers, right from small-time explorers to off-road enthusiasts. Harrier.ev will target customers from the mainstream premium SUV segment, which currently witnesses sales of around 25,000 units per month.

It is really special for me, for Virat Kohli, and all the fans. Those who have supported for years, they all deserve it. After the Qualifier, we thought that we can go through. I think 190 was a good score on this track as it was a bit slow. Bowlers executing their plans was tremendous to watch.

— Rajat Patidar, RCB captain

When we batted, we realised the slower you bowl the better it is. In this format, you need guts to do it. I just backed myself, thought I'll vary my pace and keep it on the slower side more often. My biggest strength has been to learn what the situation requires. I knew I had to be brave to get wickets tonight. — Krunal Pandya, Player of the Final

WAITING ENDS @18

Led by Krunal in the bowling department, RCB defend score of 190 against PBKS to capture long-awaited crown

GOMESH S @ Ahmedabad

VIRAT Kohli was in tears near the deep midwicket boundary. He was in disbelief. Josh Hazlewood had delivered two dot balls in the final over, helping Royal Challengers Bengaluru become IPL champions — their first in 18 years. The one trophy Kohli and his team had been yearning for since the tournament's inception in 2008.

It did not matter that the next four balls went for 22 runs. Just as the final ball left Punjab Kings' batter Shashank Singh's bat, Kohli dropped down on his knees to be filled with tears. He buried his face, not wanting to get up. Captain Rajat Patidar and the rest of the team ran towards Kohli, embracing him as he got up. In 2025, one year after the women won their first-ever trophy in WPL, RCB men beat Punjab by just six runs to get their hands on the IPL trophy.

It had seemed inevitable from the moment Shreyas Iyer nicked Romario Shepherd and walked back in the chase of 191. The belief only grew as Josh Inglis hit Krunal Pandya straight into the hands of the long-on fielder. But when Marcus Stoinis fell in the 17th over to Yash Dayal with 49 runs needed, the fate was sealed.

More than 90,000 fans found their voice, chanting 'AAR SEE BEE', their former player AB de Villiers was shown on the screen, inducing a cheer of 'ABD, ABD, ABD'. And of course, the biggest star of all, Virat Kohli.

But on Tuesday, it was not Kohli or Josh Hazlewood or Phil Salt or Patidar who rose to the occasion. The actual hero of the final for RCB was Krunal, the man who now has been a part of four IPL victories (three with Mumbai Indians). Unfazed by the occasion, the street-smart spinner came in, bowled tight lines, took two crucial wickets, finishing with a championship-winning spell of 2/17 from four overs. By the time he was done, the mountain had become too steep to climb for Punjab.

However, it did not always look like RCB were going to win this. Not when Shreyas took an ice-cool catch to remove Phil Salt off Kyle Jamieson in the very second over in the first innings. Or when Kohli went into a shell in the powerplay while Mayank Agarwal and Patidar tried to keep the scoreboard ticking before getting out against the run of play. At the time, it felt like the occasion had gotten to them.

RCB wanted to approach it like any other contest, but they knew it would not be easy. Their fans had turned up in large numbers, comparable to India's support during the ODI World Cup final. Even the theatres in Bengaluru were showing the final in screens for the non-travellers while Deputy Chief Minister of Karnataka had put on the RCB jersey and released a video in support, showing how desperately they were longing for an IPL trophy.

Shreyas set the tone with the catch to remove Salt, and the rest followed. Yuzvendra Chahal removed their first spinbasher, Mayank Agarwal, and Jamieson hit it full on Rajat Patidar to remove three of the top four, who had been taking on bowlers through the season. It did come at a cost — RCB were 96/3 in 10.5 overs when Patidar fell — but Punjab remained calm. As wickets fell around him, Kohli got stuck. Till Patidar got out, he had played 22 balls, hit just two boundaries, while accumulating just 20 runs in as many balls. Over the next 24 balls, Azmatullah Omarzai, Vyshak Vijaykumar and Chahal conceded just two boundaries — a four and a six — and Kohli (43 off 35 balls) succumbed. He tried to pull Omarzai, top-edged, and the Afghan all-rounder ran towards midwicket to complete the catch.

From thereon, Jitesh Sharma tried his best to replicate what he did against Lucknow Super Giants, but Punjab kept hitting the hard lengths despite the boundaries that came off Jamieson and Arshdeep Singh. Vyshak eventually got rid of Jitesh for 25 off 15. Arshdeep delivered the final blow in the end, taking three wickets while giving away just three runs in the final over of the innings, as RCB got to 190/9. It was a competitive total, but not an unattainable target. However, Krunal and the rest of the RCB bowling attack stepped up to fulfil the long-awaited dream of millions of fans.

BRIEF SCORES

RCB 190/9 in 20 ovs (Kohli 43, Patidar 26, Livingstone 25; Arshdeep 3/40, Jamieson 3/48) bt PBKS 184/7 in 20 ovs (Shashank 61 n.o, Inglis 39, Prabhsimran 26; Krunal 2/17).

ROYAL FANS ROAR FOR BENGALURU

GOMESH S @ Ahmedabad

LONG before Punjab Kings won the toss and opted to bowl against Royal Challengers Bengaluru in the 2025 IPL final. Even before it was confirmed that Shreyas Iyer's team will play the summit clash something happened at the Narendra Modi Stadium, Ahmedabad, on Monday. As Shreyas inched closer towards the target against Mumbai Indians a chant emerged in the stands.

Not for Punjab or for Mumbai, nor was it about Shreyas or Rohit Sharma, but of 'AAR SEE BEE'. As Shreyas slammed Ashwani Kumar into the stands, thousands of fans who were in the stands and those who ran out of the stadium chanted Royal Challengers Bengaluru's name. It was a perfect indication of what's to be expected in the final on Tuesday.

Much like it has been since the beginning of the 18th season, everywhere you went in Ahmedabad, all one could hear was about RCB. From auto rickshaw and cab drives to street food shops, there was only one point of discussion – RCB.

In fact, it felt like a repeat of the 2023 ODI World Cup final where the fans painted the stadium blue. Except, this was a T20 league and the colour was all red — RCB red. Not that Punjab did not have the support or fans; New Chandigarh was their den during the playoffs and Shreyas' stakes have gone up significantly since the start of the season. However, clearly, RCB fans have shown up and the final witnessed a crowd that IPL has perhaps never seen before.

8 Royal Challengers Bengaluru became the eighth team to win a IPL trophy.

4 RCB's Krunal Pandya became an IPL winner for the fourth time (3 with MI).

Two months ago, when the 18th season of the IPL began, little did anyone expect these two teams to come to the final and play in front of a packed stadium in Ahmedabad. The final was scheduled for Kolkata and there were a few teams considered favourites. Even the road to this point was not a straightforward one. At one point, it did not even feel like the IPL would happen in this window when the league was suspended due to the India-Pakistan conflict.

When the league was suspended for eight days, there was uncertainty over the return of foreign players — and some of them did not because of other commitments. Even when it resumed, there were question mark over the scheduling. The rule changes made midway to avoid complete washouts — some teams even wrote to the BCCI about it — and uncertainty over which venue would host the playoffs.

Despite all that, over the past week, fans of those franchises showed what the tournament means and why they would turn up and cheer for their teams and heroes in the playoffs. If the Qualifier 1 in New Chandigarh was all about the home team, Tuesday was for Virat Kohli and RCB. Although the IPL turned 18 this year, there is no comparison to any of the football leagues across the globe. But in cricket there isn't a bigger league than this.

Title-holder Swiatek to meet Sabalenka in semis

AGENCIES @ Paris

THREE-TIME defending champion Iga Swiatek set up a blockbuster French Open semifinal clash with World No 1 Aryna Sabalenka on Tuesday.

Swiatek, the fifth seed, got past 13th-seeded Ukrainian Elina Svitolina 6-1, 7-5 in Paris after top women's seed Sabalenka won a nervy quarterfinal against Olympic champion Zheng Qinwen, 7-6 (3), 6-3.

"(Aryna) has been having a great season so I'm not going to lie, it is going to be a tough match. But I'm happy for the challenge," said Swiatek after reeling off her 26th win in a row at the French Open.

Both players have shared the number one ranking between them since April 2022. Sabalenka ended Swiatek's 11-month reign as World No 1 last October but the Pole leads 8-4 in their previous meetings.

How Gukesh borrowed a Djokovician trait to beat Carlsen & Erigaisi

AT one point of time on the Norway Chess broadcast on Sunday, commentators Tania Sachdev, David Howell and Jovanka Houska were talking about the distinct possibility of D Gukesh being at the bottom of the six-man tournament after the sixth round.

The Indian world champion, under all kinds of pressure from Magnus Carlsen, was just about hanging, surviving. His only aim was not to lose instantly. That was 8.30 PM local time on Sunday. 24 hours later, at 8.30 PM on Monday, it was deja vu all over again. Gukesh was again under all sorts of pressure from Arjun Erigaisi.

But — and this is what the 19-year-old has essentially done throughout his fledgling but already elite chess career — he found a way to convert both of those games from almost loss positions to big, narrative-shattering wins. When Gukesh and his team — comprising coach Grzegorz Gajewski and father, Dr. Rajinikanth — left for Norway Chess on May 23, this was one of their aims. To beat Carlsen and Erigaisi. The world champion had played both of them at least five times each in Classical chess but he had yet to taste a win.

He has now got that monkey off his back in the most satisfying way possible — and against the odds, comeback from the brink. In both those games, Carlsen and Erigaisi committed miscalculations and game-changing blunders in the endgame which allowed their opponent to embrace the light at the end of a long tunnel.

But flip that argument on its head. The only reason why both of them even got into that stage of having to make extra moves with the clock ticking down is because of Gukesh's innate ability and love of suffering as long as the opponent suffers with him. This is one of the things the Indian World No 5 has seemingly borrowed from Novak Djokovic, another elite athlete who loves suffering as long as the person on the other side suffers.

D Gukesh beats Arjun Erigaisi to register two consecutive wins | NORWAY CHESS

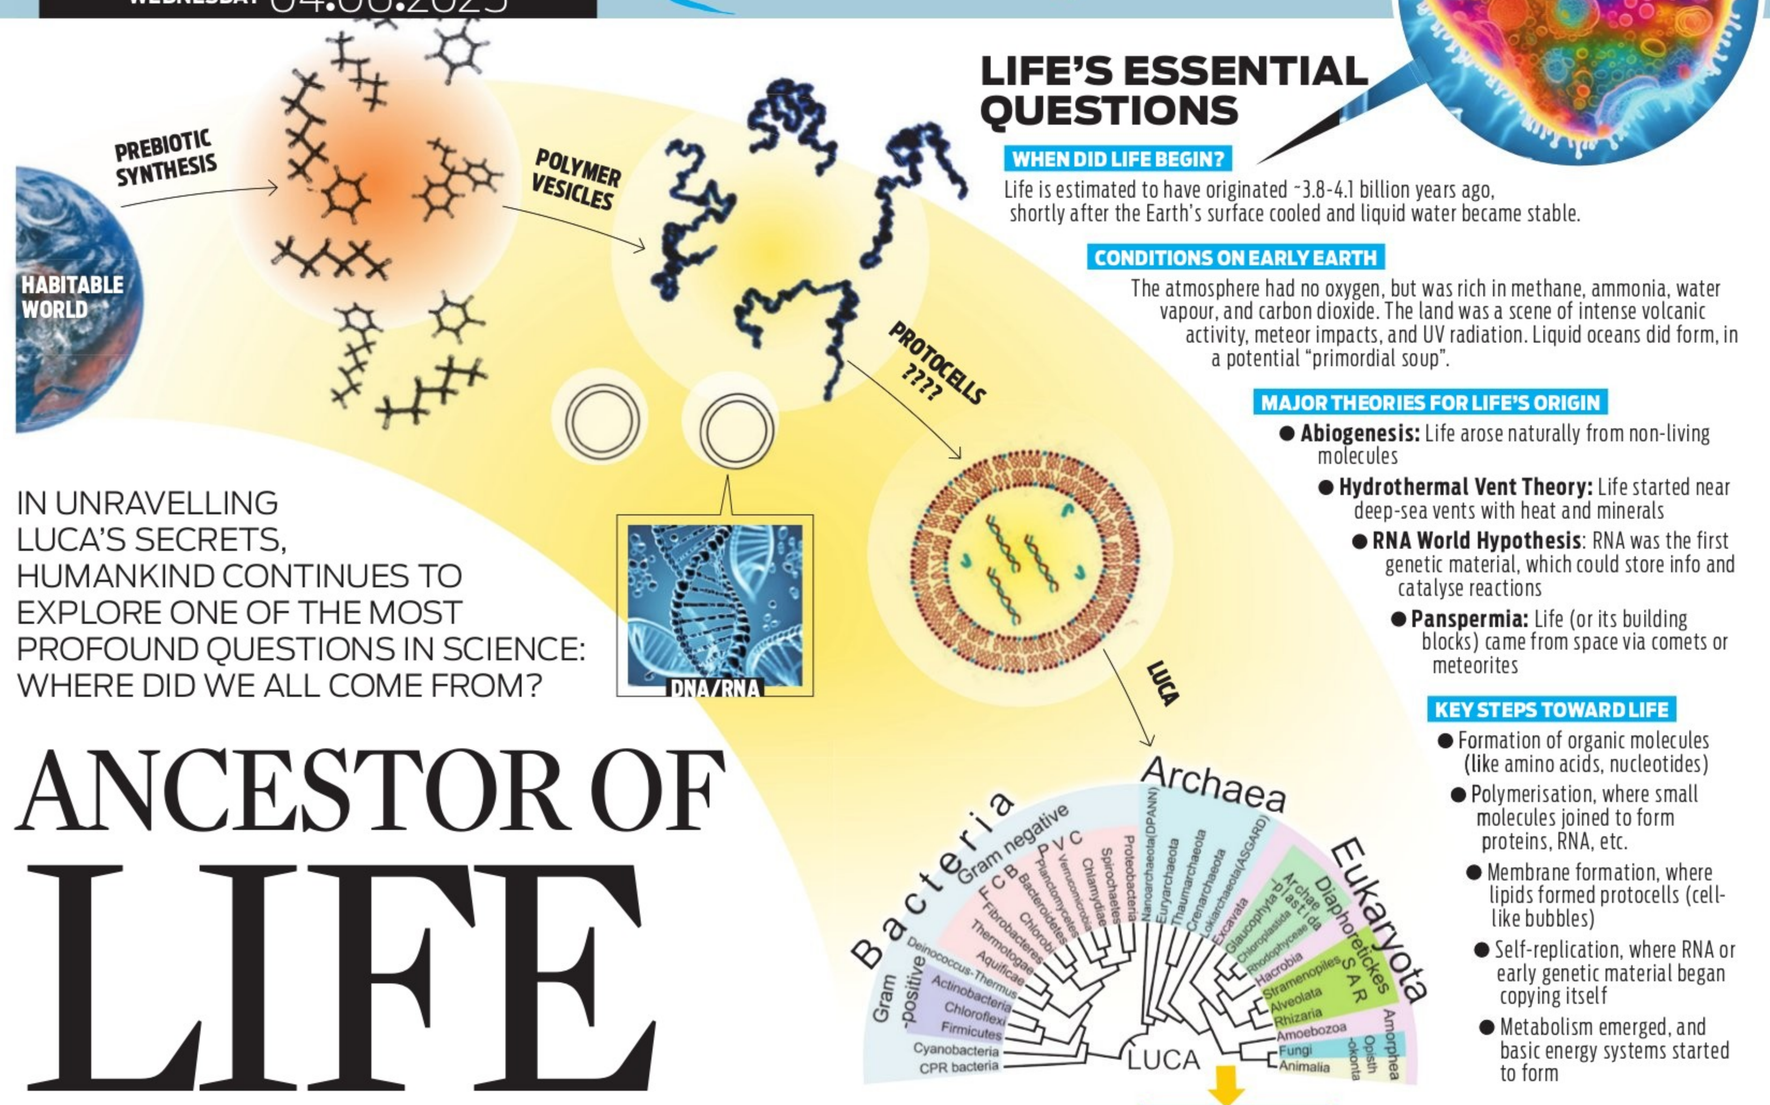
During both games, the evaluation bar massively favoured Carlsen and Erigaisi at one point. Both those games turned because the Indian did two things. He married calculation with precision with a dollop of intuitiveness. His opponents scrambled under time pressure. In a sense, you could say Gukesh — not really known to excel in the quicker formats as well as at playing intuitive chess — beat Carlsen and Erigaisi at their own games.

Both Gajewski and Carlsen addressed this aspect of Gukesh over the last 48 hours. "When you are in trouble and you keep fighting and you get rewarded for it, you have even more faith that it makes sense to keep fighting. So the very next day, when you're again in trouble, you definitely know what to do, you just keep fighting," Gajewski said of his ward's win on Monday.

Mental resolve. Ability to fight. Keep pushing. However you dress it up, it's one of Gukesh's big party tricks. It's what made Carlsen famous more than a decade ago, his capacity to keep pushing, keep fighting and keep the person on the other end of the table glued to the chair for as long as possible. It's what the Super GM displayed on Sunday in a position which didn't favour the white pieces for the first three hours and change. "I remember being that age myself and sometimes your energy, your fighting qualities and your optimism are bigger than the quality of your moves," Carlsen reflected on Monday. "For a long time, Gukesh was just blindly pushing."

That has enabled the world champion to rescue a tournament that had threatened to snowball into a crisis of confidence two days into the tournament when he was pointless. Now, he's joint second and has all the momentum in the world.

Will he capitalise?



IN UNRAVELLING LUCA'S SECRETS, HUMANKIND CONTINUES TO EXPLORE ONE OF THE MOST PROFOUND QUESTIONS IN SCIENCE: WHERE DID WE ALL COME FROM?

ANCESTOR OF LIFE

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

WHERE did life come from? What could possibly be the first living, breathing, primordial ancestor of all beings on Earth? The search for answers to such compelling questions leads to LUCA!

The Last Universal Common Ancestor, or LUCA, represents a foundational concept in evolutionary biology. It refers to the most recent common ancestor from which all current life on Earth descends. While LUCA is not exactly the first life form, it is the earliest organism for which we can trace a universal lineage connecting all domains of life: Bacteria, Archaea, and Eukarya. Studying LUCA is crucial for understanding the origin of life and the evolutionary processes that have shaped biodiversity over billions of years.

The idea of a universal common ancestor dates back to Charles Darwin, who in On the Origin of Species (1859), suggested that all life might share a common origin. Modern science has supported this hypothesis through molecular biology, particularly the universality of the genetic code. All known life uses DNA or RNA to encode genetic information, and proteins constructed from amino acids through ribosomes, indicating a shared evolutionary heritage. LUCA is therefore not a specific species or fossil, but a theoretical construct inferred from shared genetic and biochemical traits.

Scientists have attempted to reconstruct LUCA's characteristics using comparative genomics. By examining the genes common to all three domains of life, researchers can hypothesise what LUCA's genome may have contained. Studies suggest that LUCA likely lived around 3.5 to 4 billion years ago in an environment rich in hydrogen, possibly near hydrothermal vents in the deep ocean. These conditions would have provided both the chemical energy and the physical shelter required for early life to develop.

Accordingly, LUCA is believed to have been a single-celled organism with a complex internal structure, including ribosomes and possibly primitive cell membranes. While it did not possess a nucleus (as found in eukaryotic cells), it likely had DNA as its genetic material and used RNA for transcription and translation. The enzymes required for processes such as replication and protein synthesis — like DNA polymerase, RNA polymerase, and ribosomal RNA — were probably present in LUCA.

Molecular studies have allowed scientists to identify genes likely present in LUCA. For instance, a landmark 2016 study by Weiss et al. analysed gene families conserved across all domains of life and identified 355 gene families likely derived from LUCA. These included genes related to core metabolic functions, such as energy production and nucleotide synthesis. Interestingly, many genes related to lipid synthesis were missing, suggesting that LUCA might have used a simpler or mixed membrane system, or that membrane evolution occurred later.

Another crucial insight from genetic studies is that horizontal gene transfer (HGT) — the exchange of genes across species — is rampant in microbial life. This complicates the reconstruction of LUCA's genome, because genes present in modern organisms may not have been inherited vertically (ie., through reproduction) from LUCA, but acquired laterally. Despite this, the presence of core informational genes involved in transcription and translation, which are less prone to HGT, provides a reliable molecular signature for LUCA.

LUCA vs the Origin of Life

It is important to distinguish LUCA from the origin of life itself. As stated, LUCA is not particularly the first life form to exist on Earth; rather, it is the last common node from which all current life descends. Life likely began with a variety of simple, self-replicating molecules in a prebiotic environment. These proto-life forms underwent evolutionary changes, some of which may have included RNA-based life forms or other biochemical systems that no longer exist.

LUCA represents the point at which a stable, inheritable biological system emerged, capable of giving rise to the major domains of life. In this context, LUCA acts as a boundary: everything before it is considered pre-LUCA evolution, possibly involving more diverse and experimental forms of life.

One of the most intriguing questions about LUCA is its habitat. The prevailing hypothesis suggests that LUCA lived in a hydrothermal vent environment, such as alkaline vents on the ocean floor. These vents provide the ideal conditions for early biochemical processes: a source of hydrogen gas, transition metals for catalysis, and natural pH gradients that could have powered primitive energy systems like ATP synthesis. This theory is supported by the types of enzymes LUCA is believed to have had. Many of them, such as hydrogenases and ferredoxins, are associated with anaerobic and thermophilic (heat-loving) environments. The chemistry of these settings could have driven the development of early metabolic pathways, such as the Wood–Ljungdahl pathway (WLP), which fixes carbon dioxide into organic molecules. WLP is a crucial metabolic pathway used by certain bacteria and archaea for carbon fixation and energy generation.

Evolution after LUCA

Following LUCA, the tree of life diverged into the three domains known today: Bacteria, Archaea, and Eukarya. Each domain underwent distinct evolutionary trajectories. Bacteria and Archaea, though both prokaryotic, differ in fundamental ways, particularly in cell membrane composition and gene expression machinery. Eukarya, which includes plants, animals, fungi, and protists, emerged later and is characterised by more complex cellular structures, such as nuclei and organelles.

LUCA's descendants adapted to a wide range of environments, leading to the immense diversity of life observed today. Evolutionary processes such as mutation, natural selection, genetic drift, and HGT continued to shape the genomes and structures of emerging organisms, leading to new functions and complexity.

Despite significant advances, many aspects of LUCA remain speculative today. Because no fossils of LUCA exist, our understanding is based entirely on genetic and biochemical inference. The reconstruction of LUCA's genome is complicated by HGT and gene loss events that have occurred over billions of years.

LIFE'S ESSENTIAL QUESTIONS

WHEN DID LIFE BEGIN?

Life is estimated to have originated ~3.8-4.1 billion years ago, shortly after the Earth's surface cooled and liquid water became stable.

CONDITIONS ON EARLY EARTH

The atmosphere had no oxygen, but was rich in methane, ammonia, water vapour, and carbon dioxide. The land was a scene of intense volcanic activity, meteor impacts, and UV radiation. Liquid oceans did form, in a potential "primordial soup".

MAJOR THEORIES FOR LIFE'S ORIGIN

- Abiogenesis: Life arose naturally from non-living molecules
- Hydrothermal Vent Theory: Life started near deep-sea vents with heat and minerals
- RNA World Hypothesis: RNA was the first genetic material, which could store info and catalyse reactions
- Panspermia: Life (or its building blocks) came from space via comets or meteorites

KEY STEPS TOWARD LIFE

- Formation of organic molecules (like amino acids, nucleotides)
- Polymerisation, where small molecules joined to form proteins, RNA, etc.
- Membrane formation, where lipids formed protocells (cell-like bubbles)
- Self-replication, where RNA or early genetic material began copying itself
- Metabolism emerged, and basic energy systems started to form

FIRST LIFE FORMS

Likely prokaryotic, single-celled microbes

Anaerobic (no oxygen needed), probably chemotrophic (used chemicals for energy)

(These early cells led to LUCA – the ancestor of all current life)

HOW IT WORKS

SMOOTH & CONTACTLESS: A TAP IS ALL THAT'S NEEDED

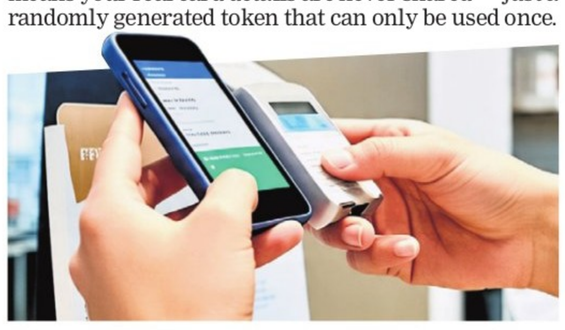
HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

IN today's fast-paced digital world, convenience is king. From tapping your phone to pay for coffee to scanning a transit card or quickly pairing wireless earbuds, Near Field Communication (NFC) has quietly revolutionised the way we interact with everyday objects. Although it operates behind the scenes, this tiny technology plays a big role in modern life by enabling secure, contactless communication between devices. NFC is a short-range wireless communication technology that allows devices to exchange data when they are placed very close to each other — typically within a few centimetres. While NFC might sound technical, it's something many people use every day through contactless payments, public transportation cards, or even when pairing headphones. A type of radio frequency identification (RFID) technology, NFC operates on the 13.56 MHz frequency and enables communication between two devices: an initiator (usually a smartphone or payment terminal) and a target (like a credit card or NFC tag). What makes NFC unique is its very short communication range, which enhances security and makes it ideal for personal, secure transactions.

There are two main modes of NFC operation: active and passive. In active mode, both devices generate their own radio frequency signals to communicate. In passive mode, one device (usually the target) doesn't generate its own power, but instead draws it from the electromagnetic field produced by the active device. This is how contactless payment cards work — they don't have a battery, but your phone or card reader powers them wirelessly.

NFC communication happens through a process called inductive coupling. The devices have small coil antennas inside, and when they are brought close together, the magnetic field from the active device induces a current in the passive one. This creates a data link, and small packets of information can be transferred almost instantly.

Security is a big focus with NFC, especially in applications like contactless payments. Communication is limited to a very short range, making it hard for hackers to intercept data without being physically very close. Additionally, NFC transactions use encryption, and systems like Google Pay, use tokenisation, which means your real card details are never shared — just a randomly generated token that can only be used once.



BEHIND THE SCIENCE

VALMIK THAPAR
A LIFE DEVOTED TO TIGERS

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

OVER a four-decade journey into India's wild heart, Valmik Thapar not only helped the Indian nature lover understand the national animal better, but also played a major role in their conservation. A distinguished naturalist, conservationist, and author, Thapar made relentless efforts to protect India's tigers and their natural habitats. Born into an intellectually vibrant family in New Delhi in 1952, Thapar was deeply influenced by India's cultural and ecological richness from an early age. He studied at St. Stephen's College, Delhi, but it was a visit to Ranthambore National Park in Rajasthan at the age of 23 that became the defining moment of his life.

Over the next four decades, Thapar dedicated himself to understanding and preserving tigers, particularly those in Ranthambore. He conducted meticulous field research on nearly 200 individual tigers, documenting their life cycles, social structures, and unique behaviours. Among his groundbreaking observations was the documentation of a tiger killing its prey in water — an unprecedented insight at the time. His studies also explored complex mating behaviours and territorial dynamics, significantly enriching scientific knowledge about this elusive predator. As a communicator, Thapar was prolific. He authored more than 40 books and produced acclaimed documentaries for the BBC, National Geographic, and Animal Planet. Works such as Living with Tigers, Tiger Fire, and The Tiger: Soul of India captured not only the majesty of the big cat, but also the fragility of its existence in a rapidly changing world.

A Friend of Tigers

Beyond writing, Thapar was a passionate advocate for reform in India's conservation policies. He founded the Ranthambore Foundation to engage local communities in wildlife preservation and served on over 150 government committees. He was a fierce critic of bureaucratic inefficiencies in Project Tiger, arguing for the inclusion of scientific expertise, professionalised wildlife management, and greater accountability in forest governance.

Thapar also championed responsible ecotourism as a tool for conservation funding and awareness-building, always emphasising the importance of balancing human needs with ecological integrity. Honoured with a string of awards, Thapar's impact is profound and lasting. His death on May 31, 2025, marked the end of an era, but his legacy lives on, in protected forests, inspired conservationists, and the enduring roar of the tigers he loved.

AMERICAN DREAM

LOADING...

Amid tighter student visa restrictions in the US, many youngsters from Bengaluru are turning down offers; demand for education in countries like the UK has risen by 50 per cent, and countries such as France, Germany, Singapore and New Zealand are seeing a rise in enrolment of up to 150 per cent

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

THE first few months of the US President Donald Trump administration has brought news of international students facing revoked visas, deportations, and recently, Harvard University received government orders against accepting international students, even current students were expected to figure out transfers to keep their visas. Bengaluru's students – aspiring to obtain a coveted US degree – who had already applied and even gotten accepted, have not been unaffected by the news, with some turning down US offers.

One such student is Meghana Abhijeet Khanolkar, who recently graduated Class 12 from a reputed CBSE school, and received admission to three well-known US institutions but turned them down in favour of an Indian liberal arts university. She cites the huge financial commitment combined with the unstable political scenario as the reason, stating, "The uncertainty for international students definitely played a big part in my decision because I had no idea if I'd get a visa, and even if I did, there's a chance of it being cancelled after getting there. I didn't want to be stuck with no Indian universities as a backup."

Cammie Vallepalli, college counsellor at Canadian International School, which sees a significant number of their graduating class go to universities in the United States each year, noticed this apprehension among the school's students and parents too, who are closely following Trump's actions. "The number of applications to the US remained steady this year but we have had families and students reach out in the past few weeks expressing concern about going to the US at this time. Several students are deciding to turn down US admissions offers in favour of a seat at another university in the UK or Australia," she notes.

Sonal Kapoor, global chief business officer at Prodigy Finance, a company that gives financial aid to students to study abroad concurred, saying that despite consistent interest, students are being cautious, applying to several countries as a backup. "The broader global context can't be ignored. Overall, international student enrollment in the US has declined by 11 per cent during this period. At the same time, the demand for education in other countries like the UK has risen by 50 per cent, and countries such as France, Germany, Singapore and New Zealand are seeing a rise in enrolment of up to 150 per cent," she says.

Hoping for stability to return to US landscape

Despite the uncertainty, many students are still willing to take the risk for a coveted US degree. "While interacting with students from Bengaluru, Chennai, Hyderabad, Mumbai, and Kolkata, we found that at least 50 per cent of them want to go to the US for their education, they are even willing to wait a year to pursue their studies there," says Kapoor, adding, "STEM and innovation-driven students, those with ambitions tied to Silicon Valley, AI startups, or US tech firms, continue to prioritise the United States. They see it as the ultimate launchpad for their careers. Even those applying elsewhere are often hoping for stability to return to the US landscape."

Krish S, currently waiting to get a visa appointment before going to study physics at the University of California, San Diego, is optimistic despite the recent order to halt visa appointments and screen the social media accounts of those who apply.

He says, "I am thinking of going into the research side of astrophysics, particle physics or quantum physics," he says, adding, "While stricter checking is going on for visas, I don't feel like it's much of a problem because as long as you're within the law, there's nothing to be worried about. Some of my friends were a bit scared after the Harvard issue but now they're not really worried because it seems like a university-specific problem with other universities not being impacted."

CELEBRATED MUSICIAN HARIPRASAD CHAURASIA, WHO PERFORMED IN B'LURU RECENTLY, ON HIS BOLLYWOOD COMPOSITION RANG BARSE WHICH CONTINUES TO RULE THE CHARTS, AND HIS ACCIDENTAL TRYST WITH MUSIC

'I learnt music secretly'

NITIKA KRISHNA

THE true maestro of the bansuri, who enchants audiences across the globe, Pandit Hariprasad Chaurasia is a recipient of many honours. At a recent concert, he breathed life into raags like Madhuvanthi, Bhimpalasi, and Pahadi. Awestruck, everyone joined their palms in reverence. Pt Hariprasad answered with a warm smile. But in conversation with CE, he confesses, "I was so nervous about performing in front of so many people! But I thoroughly enjoyed myself and also made it a point to involve attendees as I performed. There was this little girl who sang so well as I played the flute – I was overcome with emotion."

When the 86-year-old maestro is asked how he dove into the world of music when he was a little boy, he quips, "Why? Am I looking old now?" It is this quality, perhaps akin to Lord Krishna's playfulness, that complements his divine musical abilities. But unlike Kanhaiya's carefree childhood antics of teasing gopis and stealing the butter they churned, Pt Hariprasad had to grapple with his father's expectations. "My mother passed away when I was little. My father wanted me to become a wrestler. To keep him happy, I used to go to the akhada to practice. I learnt music secretly, telling him I was going to the library to read the newspaper. It was only when I got an opportunity as a musician in Odisha that he got to know I was passionate about music," the maestro says. His father eventually relented, and Pt Hariprasad followed his heart, going on to make waves in the musical realm.

Among his notable compositions in Bollywood is the famous Holi song Rang Barse for the Amitabh Bachchan-starrer Silsila (1981). He composed this along with Pandit Shivkumar Sharma – together, they were the iconic duo, 'Shiv-Hari'. "Shivkumar was a great friend of mine, and I thoroughly enjoyed composing Rang Barse with him. And see, 44 years later, during Holi, regardless of the new songs that play, this song...is a classic favourite," Pt Hariprasad proudly notes.

He also learnt from several great gurus, one of whom was Annapurna Devi, a great Hindustani classical musician. Under her tutelage, he unlearnt a lot and delved deep into raagas. He even started playing left-handed as a symbol of reverence to his guru.

Pt Hariprasad has composed pieces with discipline and a keen understanding of the pulse. He states, "Kahan bajega, kiske liye bajega, kaun gayega...taking all this into account, I compose the song."

He had friends beyond borders too, notably the late George Harrison, the lead guitarist of The Beatles. "George was a great singer and guitarist who really loved Bharat, its people, and its parampara (traditions). In fact, when he used to visit India, he would go to Vrindavan too," Pt Hariprasad reveals. The fondness in his voice for a friend who is no more is evident as he recalls a memorable experience: "He had once come to my house...there were other artistes too; we had a little food, made some bhaang, and relished it!"

He adds, "When I visited him in London, I went to his big mansion, surrounded by a maidaan, in Henley-on-Thames (a town in England). Inside, there was a studio and rehearsal room. He would listen to my music and I'd listen to his."

Traffic circles in Bengaluru were unique. They were installed not just to manage traffic but have been a symbol of beauty and aesthetics in the cityscape for long. Most of them have a story attached. Mehkri Circle (officially named Enayathulla Mehkri Square) was built and inaugurated by Sir John Hope, the then Governor of the Madras Presidency, in April 1937. The circle was named after Enayathulla Mehkri, a philanthropic businessman who was moved by the plight of bullocks that often broke their legs while carrying loads up the steep climb from Hebbal tank to the city. He built the circle by widening and levelling the stretch of road from Hebbal to what is now Mehkri Circle at his own cost. Name the well-known grounds near the circle belonging to the Wodeyars of Mysore.

2

A 30-foot-tall stone memorial was erected within a circle garden at a busy junction in the city in memory of the Mysore Lancers of Imperial Service troops (Personal army of Maharaja of Mysore) who lost their lives during World War I.
It is perhaps one of the few World War I memorabilia in the city. Where is this historic monument located; JC Nagar or Jayanagar?

2

The Mysore Bank Circle was the nucleus of many activities during India's freedom struggle. During the Quit India movement, in August 1942, police opened fire at a huge gathering at the circle in which six people lost their lives (most of them were students of Central College) and left many severely injured. A 10-foot tall memorial stone plaque was erected adjacent to the circle in memory of the martyrs. This historic circle is where once stood one of the fort gates that Kempegowda built in 1537. Name the fort gate: Yelahanka Gate or Ulsoor Gate?

FITBIT

BHUJANGASANA VARIATION ARMS
(COBRA POSE VARIATION ARMS)

The Cobra Pose Variation Arms is a beginner-level, gentle backbend performed in the prone position. Students new to yoga, who may not yet be able to perform the full Cobra Pose, can do this. This variation of Bhujangasana (Cobra Pose) serves as a preparatory posture for this and other intense backbends. This pose is part of mini vinyasa flows such as Bhujangasana Vinyasa (Cobra Pose Flow) and Bhujangasana Vinyasa I (Cobra Pose Flow I).

STEPS

- Start in a prone position, either Advasana (Reverse Corpse Pose) or Makarasana (Crocodile Pose).
- Place the palms close to the upper abdomen on the floor at chest level. The arms and elbows should remain aligned close to the body.
- With the feet stretched behind and the toes and heels together, align the legs and lower back as you breathe.
- Applying slight pressure on the palms, inhale and lift the chest and shoulders, drawing the body backwards. The arms remain close to the body with the elbows bent. Exhale and engage the neck and head.
- Do not tilt the head back into a deep backbend. Keep the gaze fixed on the floor.
- Stay in the pose as per your capacity, ensuring you do not hold your breath.
- Release the palms off the floor and gradually lower the chest and forehead back down.
- Exit the pose and rest in Makarasana.
- Repeat the practice as per your capacity and gradually build back strength.
- Note: Senior citizens/ people suffering from prolonged illnesses, those are bed-ridden, can do this pose with clinical analysis of their therapy requirement.

BENEFITS

- It is a gentle back-strengthening pose that tones the lower back and glutes.
- Enhances spinal flexibility.
- Gentle backbends promote chest opening.
- Breathing remains rhythmic and natural.
- Practitioners can focus on alignment here.
- Students develop breath awareness to maintain the posture without sudden movements.
- Provides a foundational step towards flexibility for beginners.
- For beginners, this pose is energising as it tones the lower back and gluteal muscles.
- Spinal toning contributes to calming the nervous system.
- This moderate backbend releases muscular tension in the upper, mid, and lower back, thereby relaxing both body and mind.
- Students experiencing lower back pain, or digestive disorders such as flatulence, constipation, diabetes, or low metabolism may benefit from this pose.

Literature's Muslim Question

PHOTO: AP

Heart Lamp, which recently got The Booker Prize, depicts the lives of Muslim women in South India. Authors talk to Akash Chatterjee about the representation of the community's practices in Indian literature in English

THE short stories that comprise Banu Mushtaq's Booker-winning Heart Lamp, translated from Kannada, depict the lives of Muslim women in southern India. CE speaks to a set of authors to find out whether the community's everyday life and cultural practices have been adequately represented in Indian literature available in English.

LOPA GHOSH, AUTHOR, AGE OF MONDAYS

Characters are born of stories – their identity, religion and other matters are just minor details. It is the voice in which they speak about their lives that matters to me. Incidentally, in my novel Age of Mondays, there are several Muslim characters - a little girl Armish whose nani's house is barricaded, and Mian Pagla, a Jugnu who followed the river. They bring with them different contexts and realities of Muslim lives. Those distances and longings shape and mirror my protagonist, 10-year-old Narois's, sense of displacement. Stories and the people who bear those stories are rivers that flow through the act of writing.

ZEHRA NAQVI, AUTHOR, THE RELUCTANT MOTHER

True, the stories of Indian Muslim women have not been adequately represented. However, the situation is changing. More and more Muslim women are telling their stories, and those are not partition or riot memoirs. For instance, Reema Ahmad's book Unparenting talks about a Muslim woman's journey after divorce. Teresa Rehman's book Bulletproof talks about her journey as a journalist. Annie Zaidi has written about nation and belongingness. However, there are significant challenges Muslim women have to face when penning their experiences. They have to deal with Islamophobia. Muslim women are often not included in the list of Indian writers. They have to face patriarchal notions that exist within the community. I myself have been accused of fostering Islamophobia many times for penning my experience, which criticises many practices of my community. But there will always be challenges, and writers are also overcoming them.

ABDULLAH KHAN, AUTHOR, PATNA BLUES

It is true that the cultural diversity among the Indian Muslims has not been talked about. The primary reason is that there are not many authors from the community or from middle-class or lower-middle-class backgrounds writing in English. English is still considered a language of a certain class, and it needs some amount of money to learn that. As a community, which is financially not so well off, a large section of Muslims, hence, do not have the privilege to learn that language. Hence, the lives of the small towns or villages, where the majority of the Muslims live, go missing. I grew up in villages, studied in a madrasa, and later decided to write in English. But you will not find many like me writing in that language.

ZEYAD MASROOR KHAN, AUTHOR, CITY ON FIRE

It is a problem of binary. A Muslim is considered either a traitor or too loyal to the state – both of these ideas dehumanise them and turn them into images instead of actual people. Muslims are humans too, and they can do good or bad — the pre-conceived attitude creates invisibilisation. Writers like Premchand looked at Muslim lives, in works like Idgah. Modern-day writers have failed to do this due to their bias of seeing Muslims in simplified images.

NUSRAT F JAFRI, CINEMATOGRAPHER, WRITER, THIS LAND WE CALL HOME

When I wrote my book, This Land We Call Home, it was welcomed by people from across religions. So, I do not think that the audience will not welcome me, or, for instance, any other authors, if they want to see the world through the lens of a Muslim protagonist. Yes, there are fewer narratives by Muslim women, and I believe greater access to education is key to changing that.

OMAIR AHMAD, AUTHOR, JIMMY THE TERRORIST

There is no one identity that is 'Indian Muslim'. Muslims live across the length and breadth of India, and so the lives they inhabit – in Punjab, in Assam, in Bengal, in Karnataka, all have their own rhythm and feel defined by the place – its music, food, and even ways of praying. To represent Indian Muslims well, you have to represent all of India well, and that is a huge ask. Furthermore, writing in English has largely been dominated by writing about the big cities. Half of the Indian Muslim population lives in the economically-struggling states of Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, West Bengal, and Assam. These states, and their inhabitants, usually get a miss in Indian literature in English. You don't have to be Muslim to write sensitively about Muslims, a writer does not have to be the subject. Mukul Kesavan's Looking Through Glass is a great example. The Kashmiri Muslim character in Mahesh Rao's One Point Two Billion is also lovingly brought out.

Lavanya Mohan, in her book Money Doesn't Grow on Trees, breaks down the codes and creeds about financial matters into a simple and comprehensive language, making it accessible to individuals across age groups

SONU M KOTHARI

LET'S TALK MONEY

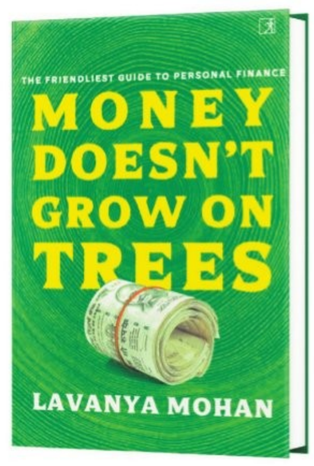
FIRST, it was a blog on WordPress. Then came the reels on Instagram. Chennai-based chartered accountant Lavanya Mohan has taken many routes to break down money matters into simple, easy-to-understand and relatable terms. As her followers grew, so did her content. Mohan says, "Money is not math but a language that has its own vocabulary and grammar." After making finances more approachable and presenting it as a tool for empowerment, she is now coming out with a book, Money Doesn't Grow on Trees: The Friendliest Guide to Personal Finances (Simon & Schuster India, ₹299).

The book guides every individual on age-appropriate financial decisions – suggesting that responsibilities may change, but when you have financial backing throughout, navigating those shifts becomes manageable. Mohan, in a conversation with CE, shares her learnings, experiences and pieces of advice from her financial journey and beyond.



Excerpts:

• How did your early experiences shape your understanding of money and how has it evolved over the years?

I grew up in a household where money was discussed fairly often and openly. My father is a chartered accountant and so am I. When we were young, he'd keep driving this whole point about needing to save, needing to invest. He'd always encourage us to go forth and invest. So, I did not know until much later, that most households did not discuss money with the aggression that my household did. My mother, I remember, always used to tell me that "You have to own your own money.' So we were also driven to like work early on and I think all of that really helped shape my relationship with money.

As I grew older, that aggression with which I chased money as a young person mellowed down. Now, I do look at value more than the actual number itself. It's healthier now.

• Talking about how women don't take financial roles in a family, do you think the current generation is also like that or do you see a shift?

There is a positive shift. Thanks to the internet and finance influencers. The young people in this generation are more aware of health insurance than they were ever before. They're more aware of SIPs and mutual funds. There's also been a lot of push from the government in terms of making mutual funds more prevalent and more popular. So, I definitely think that this generation is far better equipped in terms of understanding money than the previous generation.

Q A

• When should an individual begin thinking about their savings, spending, and investing?

Saving and investing should come from your first job. Once you get into your first job, you build a habit of saving. I say 'habit' because what you need to get used to is money going out of your account every month. So by the time your salary steps up, you can keep adding to that little saving that happens every month. And because that habit has already been set up for you, you've already learned to live with a little less and you're not figuring it out for the first time.

Setting up that savings habit is important once you start getting in your first pay cheque.

• What do you think are some of the common financial mistakes Indians make and a few tips on how to avoid them?

As Indians, we are married to the older generation's ideas of saving. For example, all of us grew up seeing our grandparents telling our parents to get insurance investment products. And back then, that was an available option. Today, there's much more available in terms of more efficient investments, and better- designed products that can help you beat inflation.

Secondly, we are very casual with debt. India has a debt problem no one wants to talk about. The number of credit card defaults has spiked debt to 40 per cent of the GDP and all of us borrow thinking we will pay it back. But things can spiral a lot quicker than we think. Life is very unpredictable, and you get into debt, it's very concerning. So I think we need to be more careful around casual debt. I'm not talking about home loans or educational loans but getting an iPhone, going on holidays or buying luxury products on EMI. That kind of spending needs to stop. Save first and then do your spending.

• In your view, what does it really mean to be financially independent?

It is when you have the ability to choose whatever it is that you want to do. (It can be) having enough money to walk out from a job, knowing fully well that for the next six months or one year, you don't have to worry about money. You can put your head down, work on something on your own, take a break, or figure out whatever it is that you want to do – that is financial independence. When you know that you have the money that can back you up in that decision, then that's financial independence.

• What is your one-line money mantra?

Money doesn't grow on trees is my money mantra.

'I DON'T WANT TO RISK THE PRODUCER'S MONEY'

A SHARADHAA

VIKRAM Ravichandran is giving a whole new meaning to what it means to hustle in silence. Even as Mudhol nears completion—with just 10 to 14 days of shoot left—the actor is already facing the camera for an untitled project, produced by Manjunath Reddy.

"I currently have three films in hand, all with new directors and fresh stories," Vikram reveals. "One is with Manjunath Reddy, which we'll announce officially soon. The third project just wrapped up its final round of discussions."

But Vikram's journey isn't just about filmmaking—it's also about enduring physical pain. For over a year, he has been battling a muscle tear that has worsened and now requires surgery on both shoulders. "I need rehab, but I'm finding alternative ways to finish the shoots before I go under the knife," he says.

Despite the toll, his commitment to professionalism remains firm. While he had a role lined up in Nelson, the project is currently on hold. "I returned the advance money to three producers. If the vision doesn't match, I don't want to risk the producer's money. I respect the time and effort every project deserves."

Vikram's spirit of experimentation is evident in his collaboration with Manjunath Reddy. "It's a commercial film, but the storyline carries a mythological layer, though not in its treatment. I'm trying new genres and working with new directors," he signs off.

'College Kalavida is a musical love story with a strong social message'

Director Sanjay Malavalli, along with the film's producer, lead actor, and music composer, discusses College Kalavida—a film that explores college life and the real issues faced on campus

CE FEATURES

COLLEGE Kalavida is all set to bring a fresh wave of youthful energy to Kannada cinema. While it presents itself as a musical love story, the film goes beyond romance, talking into real and relevant issues—most notably, the growing problem of drug use among college students.

The brain behind the project, Sanjay Malavalli, steps into the director's chair for the first time after over 15 years of being an assistant and associate director. In a conversation ahead of the film's release this week, Sanjay, along with the actor, producer, and composer opened up about what College Kalavida truly means to them.

"I've worked on over 15 films in various roles, but this is my directorial debut. I'm also a writer and lyricist. Under the mentorship of Mandya Ramesh, I learned the value of storytelling that connects. College Kalavida is not just about love; it's about friendship, relationships, humour, fights—and yes, real issues like drugs that students face today."

Described as a musical love journey, the film blends beautiful melodies, youthful energy, and the rawness of campus life. It was shot across visually rich locations like Bengaluru and Chikkamagaluru.

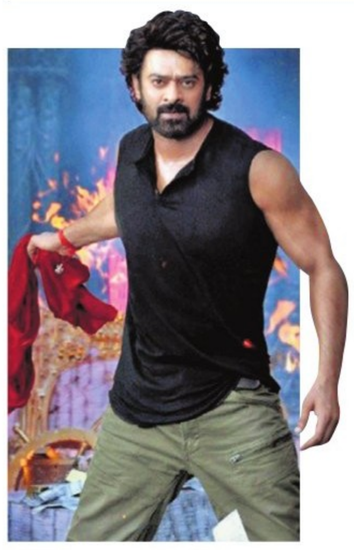
Tarun Sharma, the producer of the film, comes from a business background in iron and steel, and reveals his ironclad belief in the story. "I had no experience in films, but I loved the story the director narrated, and took the leap. I'm playing a villain in the film too—something the director insisted on. I've done my best, and the audience will decide if I've succeeded. If the response is good, I'll continue producing—and maybe even acting."

The film will be released in over 100 theatres across Karnataka under Shalini Arts Distribution.

Returning to films after a stint in TV serials, Aaraav Surya plays the lead—a sketch artist and a typical college student whose life takes an emotional turn when he falls in love. "I started acting in 2016, then moved to serials. With College Kalavida, I return to cinema with a good role. My character experiences the highs and lows of love, friendship, and family bonding, while the drug subplot gives the film a hard-hitting reality. It's more than just a love story."

Music director Suraj Jois called College Kalavida his most special project yet. "This is my 13th film. There are four songs—I've sung two myself. We've created a special theme track as well. The background score, the dialogues, the humour—it all comes together beautifully. The director deserves the credit for it."

Apart from the leads, the film features Huliraya Karthik in a comedic role, veteran actor Ramesh Bhat, and actor Harini. The technical crew include cinematographer Anand Sundaresh and choreographer Baalu.



Guri returns after four decades with a new story, new soul

CE FEATURES

FOUR decades after the iconic 1980s Kannada superhit Guri starring the legendary Dr Rajkumar, a film bearing the same title returns to the screen — but this time with a new voice, a different heart, and a strikingly relevant message. Titled Guri, with the English tagline - I Love My School, the film is a tribute to education, childhood resilience, and the power of community.

Produced under the Vishnu Durga Production banner by Radhika SR and Chitralekha S, Guri is a deeply personal and ambitious project helmed by Selvam Madappan. Taking on the roles of writer, director, cinematographer, and screenwriter, Selvam brings over 15 years of experience in the Kannada film industry to this passion project that stemmed from a real-life incident

"While visiting Teralli Betta near Kolar, I came across a government school that had been shut down. Children were playing in a nearby pond with their teachers — it moved me," said Selvam. "When I spoke to locals and learned more, I knew I had to tell this story."

The film centers on a couple of spirited Class 3 students who take a stand when their beloved government school faces permanent closure. Their protest, driven by innocence and determination, leads to unexpected triumph — a narrative that exposes the widening gap between public and private education systems.

"It's a story of courage, innocence, and the will to make a difference," Selvam added.

Child actors Mahanidhi and Jeevith Bhushan play the leads in the film, which also stars Achyuth Kumar, Jayashree, Ugram Manju, TS Nagabharana, Avinash, Pawan Kumar, and Chandraprabha. "There's something deeply pure about this film — it's not just cinema, it's a slice of reality," noted Achyuth Kumar.

Music for Guri is composed by Palani D Senapathi, with lyrics penned by V Manohar and Madhusudan. The film's audio rights have been picked up by Lahari Velu's MRT Music, a new player in the industry.

CHILDHOOD IN TIMES OF CONFLICT

CINEMA WITHOUT BORDERS

In this weekly column, the writer introduces you to powerful cinema from across the world

NAMRATA JOSHI

BE it Short Sharp Shock, The Edge of Heaven, Soul Kitchen or In the Fade, Fatih Akin, the prolific German filmmaker of Turkish descent, is best known for films that explore immigrant lives. With his latest, Amrum, he ventures into the new zone of period drama. A moving documentation of what it is like growing up in a beautiful place—Amrum Island in Germany—but at a treacherous point in history—towards the end of World War II, it nonetheless engages with the contemporary issues of identity and belonging and rings an obviously discernible political bell. What is of the times comes with a timelessness attached. Political indoctrination of the young, after all, is as much a thing of the past as it is of the present and the future.

The story is told from one such child's perspective. The protagonist, 12-year-old Nanning (Jasper Billerbeck), is a man in the body of a boy, whose life is not about fun and games but arduous jobs—working on the farm, fishing, hunting for rabbits and being the bait in the dangerous chase for killing a seal—all to help his mother Hille (Laura Tonke) bring food to the table for the family. Will the end of the war, the death of Hitler and a return to peace change things for them? Or will normalcy still remain a distant dream? What is normal anyhow what with the pregnant Hille mourning the fall of Hitler and Nanning, brought up in the midst of Nazis, unable to let go of the "Hail Hitler" salutation even while encountering an increase in animosity for those with his political inclination. The unlikely clincher in this momentous time is the family secret that Nanning unwittingly unearths, which further ruptures his already broken reality.

The film, which is co-written by Akin with Hark Bohm, is based on Bohm's own childhood memories of Amrum. It had its world premiere at the official Cannes Premiere section of the Cannes Film Festival marking Akin's fifth selection at the event. Akin changes course stylistically. Unlike his signature lush and vigorous narratives, things get quieter and centred, simple and subdued. The lilting quality of the frames and the rhythmic flow of story-telling is offset by the weightiness and intensity at the heart of the tale.

The writing is replete with a sense of mystery and impending doom with the soundtrack adding to the inscrutability. The panoramic, grand vistas of the island (framed by cinematographer Karl Walter Lindenlaub) parallel the amazing landscape and contours of the emotive face of Nanning. The paradise isn't quite that idyllic as it appears to the eye and the young, far from being carefree and reckless, have to constantly confront ideology and politics with all the inner passion and/or a spirit of resistance. The standout sequence, at the core of the narrative, is Nanning's epic journey across the island to fetch flour, butter and honey—basic necessities that have become luxuries—for his mother who only wants to eat white bread while she mourns Hitler's passing. Diane Kruger collaborates with Akin again after In the Fade as a Hitler hating farm owner Tessa, the rare voice of rationality and righteousness. However, it's Billerbeck's show all the way. He is stunningly cast and performs the complex role with great finesse that belies his age.

Amrum could remind some of Taika Waititi's Jojo Rabbit because of the Hitler Youth member kid as the central figure. But Akin is far from jokey in his approach. He is pertinent without being provocative, and compelling without getting confrontational. Perhaps the artistic approach that works best in our times. He fashions a tender coming-of-age film that steers clear of the sappy and the showy and touches a chord with both a sense of loss for and hope in a child's innocence. At the end of the day human integrity, and its persistence against all odds, will remain the surefire cure-all for the several ills of the world.
